Peru Hits U.S.

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Military President Ricardo Perez Godoy accused U.S. ambassador James Loeb Thursday of taking sides in Peru's presidential election last month. A U.S. spokesman in Washington termed the charge ridiculous. Loeb returned to Washington Thursday for consultations. "Unfortunately, he (Loeb) was not an impartial ambassador," Gen. Perez Godoy said. "He showed preference to one candidate. I don't know why he interfered, but he did."

Stolen Art Found

LONDON (UPI) — Thirty-five paintings stolen two weeks ago in Britain's first million-dollar art theft were recovered intact today in a police raid in London's seamy dock district. Two detective sergeants of Scotland Yard's elite "Flying Squad" burst into a house before dawn, recovered the masterpieces and arrested two men. The paintings, worth an estimated $1,500,000, were the cream of a summer show at the O'Hann Gallery.

A-Check Demands Easing?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's disarmament advisers were reported to have agreed Thursday that new scientific findings justify scaling down the safeguards proposed by the West for a nuclear test-ban treaty with the Soviet Union. At the same time, informed sources said the cabinet-level officials believe the United States should continue to insist on control posts and inspections inside the Soviet Union as part of any agreement to ban weapons tests.

Quake Hits

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A strong earthquake, apparently centred in the vicinity of Acapulco, Mexico, was recorded by the Spring Hill College seismograph Tuesday.

Special Session in Week To Iron Out Care Act

REGINA (CP) — A special session of the Saskatchewan legislature to incorporate in legislation the 29 points of the Saskatchewan medical care agreement likely will begin next week, Premier Woodrow Lloyd said Thursday. The premier said the session might be delayed if government legal experts cannot prepare the legislation soon. The session is expected to last only two or three days. The Saskatchewan agreement provided that doctors could practice outside the Medical Care Act and indications were many would elect to do so. It still will be up to patients to decide whether to seek reimbursement for medical services from the Medical Care In-

Here's How Medicare Will Work!

By KEN CLARK

SASKATOON (CP) — Saskatchewan's man-in-the-street will face a variety of alternatives under the province's amended Medical Care Insurance Act.

Officials say how he gets his medical bills paid depends partly on what kind of coverage he wants and partly on the doctor he chooses to treat him. DIRECTLY INSURED First, the citizen will be insured directly by the Medical Care Insurance Commission, administrators of the act. Whether he chooses to seek benefits or not, the citizen will begin paying premiums in November. These have been set at $12 per year for single persons and $24 for a family. Without premiums, cost of the plan this year is being met from tax sources.

PAYS NOTHING In the case of a citizen insured under the act alone, he will pay nothing if he goes to a doctor who is working under the act. The doctor will send his bill to the commission for reimbursement. But the patient may have difficulty in finding a doctor working under the act.

Officials say most of the province's 625 practising physicians will work outside the act, although at least six co-operative clinics have been set up to work under it.

PAY DIRECTLY If the man insured directly by the commission goes to a doctor working outside the act, then he must pay the doctor directly and send the bill to the commission for reimbursement. Alternatively, the individual may decide to remain in a non-profit private group insurance plan or enrol in one.

About 90 per cent of Saskatchewan's population of 225,000 were enrolled in private plans as of July 1.

IN TWO PLANS Most were in two doctor-sponsored plans, Medical Services Incorporated and Group Medical Services.

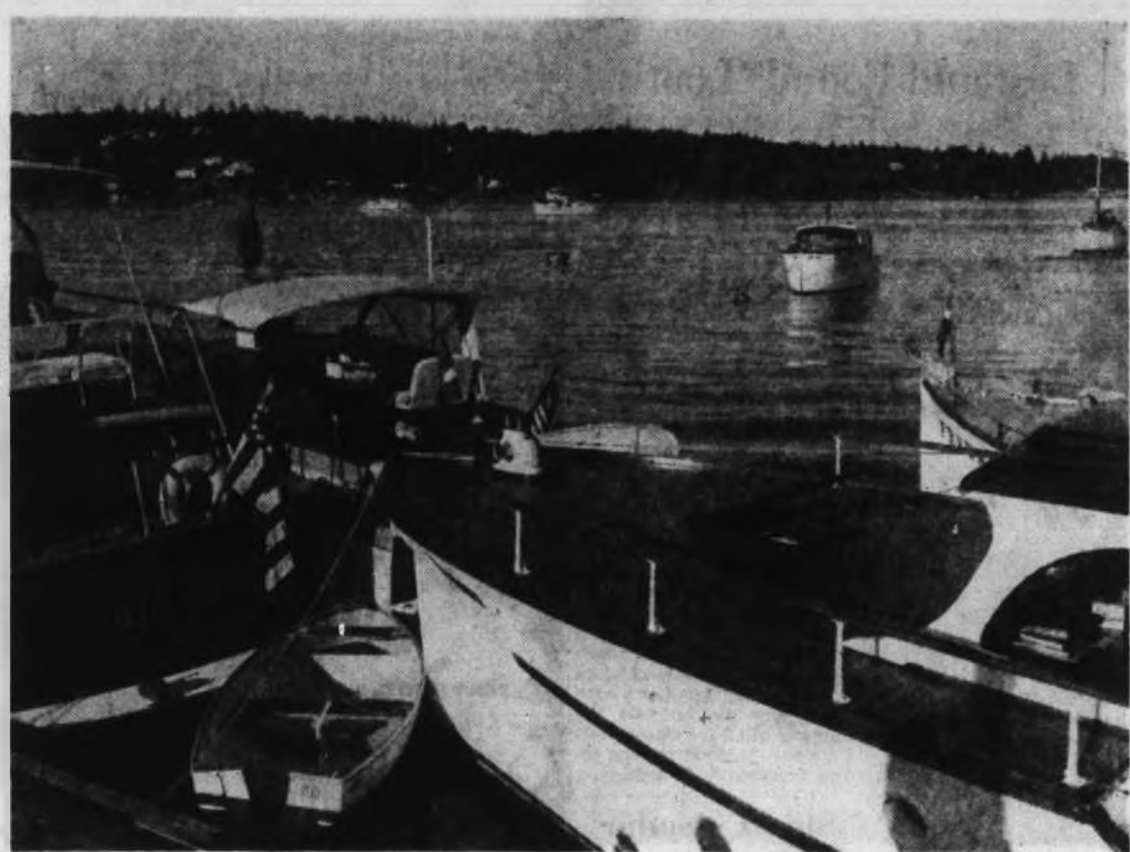

Nearly all doctors in the province have service contracts with one or both of these plans. If a citizen covered by MSI goes to an MSI doctor under the amended plan he will pay nothing for medical treatment. The doctor will send the patient's bill to MSI for reimbursement and MSI will collect from the government.

WHAT THEN? But what if an individual covered by a private agency goes to a doctor who does not have a service contract with the same agency?

In this case the patient gets a bill from the doctor, pays the doctor and then sends his bill to his agency for reimbursement.

If a person decides to join an approved private plan such as MSI then he will have to pay an administrative fee for the privilege, the amount yet to be determined. At the same time the private plan will offer supplemental coverage for an additional premium.

Regardless of what path anybody chooses to follow, all will pay annual premiums to the government for coverage.

Big Cruisers Pour Into Cadboro Bay

Facilities at picturesque Royal Victoria Yacht Club were starting to bulge yesterday with early arrivals of a flotilla of more than 100 power cruisers already entered in the world's largest predicted log cruiser

Teen-Age Teeth Show Benefit Of Fluorides

U.S. Plans To Attack Says Castro

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro told a noisy rally of Cubans Thursday the United States is preparing direct armed aggression against their homeland. He charged the U.S. Navy was holding the Guantanamo naval base "against our will" and that it has become "a lodging for drunken inhabitants and counter-revolutionaries."

"The imperialists are arming to their teeth," Castro declared.

OTTAWA (CP) — Teen-agers in Brantford, Ont., who drink water with mechanically-added fluorides have fewer than half the number of decayed teeth their counterparts have in Sarnia, Ont., where the water is not fluoridated. The federal health department said Thursday.

FEWER CAVITIES

The Brantford teen-agers, as well as teen-agers in Stratford, Ont., where the water contains natural fluorides, have fewer tooth cavities than those in Sarnia or other Canadian communities where the water supply is not fluoridated.

The statements are contained in a report of tests of 14- and 15-year-olds in the three Ontario cities. The group includes children in Brantford who have been consuming fluoridated water throughout their lifetime.

FLUORIDES ADDED

Fluorides were added to the Brantford water in 1945 while Stratford water has contained natural fluorides from underground deposits for the last 45 years. There are no fluorides in the Sarnia water.

In Sarnia, only one 14- to 15-year-old in 100 has no cavities. In Brantford and Stratford, 16 of 100 have no cavities and those who do have cavities, have small ones.

Negro Violence Will Net Action

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Negro leaders planned their next integration moves behind closed doors Thursday in the face of a new warning from Governor Ernest Vandiver that further violence would bring state action. An air of expectancy hung over this south Georgia city as Negroes ended at noon a self-imposed day of penance because of rock-throwing by some members of their race after a Tuesday night march. New marching protests against segregation had been planned but it appeared uncertain when or whether they would materialize.

Blue Law Vote Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Residents here will vote Dec. 13 on the Sunday entertainment issue. Council Thursday approved a plebiscite on the question. Last year a plebiscite proposal was rejected. The approved motion calls for a plebiscite on movies, concerts, theatrical shows and similar events.

Tories Rally To Mac

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan won a vote of confidence in the House of Commons Thursday night as his Conservative party rallied behind him to defeat a Labor opposition censure motion 351 to 253.

The vote followed a stormy debate and speech by Macmillan in answer to Labor's call for the government to resign and hold immediate elections.

In his speech, Macmillan vowed to curb "undue" profits if this was necessary to support the government's wage restraint policy.

ATTRACT SUPPORT

The unexpected pledge was seen as a move to attract public support for the Conservative government's unpopular "pay pause" policy.

Macmillan said the government would restrain any undue growth in profits "by fiscal or any other appropriate means" if it deemed that the profits were being made at the expense of workers.

As a counter-measure — but with none of the legal power — Macmillan said he would appoint an advisory permanent national incomes commission to express views on wage and salary claims of special importance.

PRACTICAL POWER

Though the commission would only have advisory power, Macmillan said, he expected that putting its opinions "before the bar of public opinion" would mean that it would have practical power as well.

He also pledged that the government would introduce legislation to set a statutory minimum period of notice before an employer can dismiss an employee.

Macmillan said the government is reviewing legislation on monopolies and restrictive practices in the light of the last five years' experience.

NOT ABASHED

Macmillan told the House he was "not at all abashed" by Labor charges that his government is inefficient and incompetent and should resign.

Opposition leader Hugh Gaitskill, opening the debate, concentrated most of his attack on Macmillan's firing of one-third of his cabinet in the great "Friday the 13th purge" of two weeks ago.

"This was the act of a desperate man in a desperate situation," he said.

Macmillan praised former chancellor of the exchequer Selwyn Lloyd, with whom the "pay pause" policy is most closely associated, as a man of courage and purpose.

But the pay pause had been won, he continued. "We have achieved a sound basis for growth and we must conserve that and move to a new phase. I have decided, for this new phase, there must be some new commanders."

Bloody Fight Feared

CP from AP-Reuters

ALGIERS — Troops of Algeria's insurgent deputy premier, Ahmed Ben Bella, were reported preparing Thursday night to push into this fortified capital city and clear the way for a new government. Bloody fighting could result.

Troops backing the wobbly central government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda manned all approaches to the city Thursday. Thousands more were holed up in the Kabylie mountains east of this seaport. Their leaders called for widespread resistance to Ben Bella.

CALM FRONT

Ben Khedda — left almost alone in the rambling government building — presented a calm front. He and his armaments minister, Abdelhalid Bouasouf, expressed confidence that "everything will be arranged."

FRENCH STAND BY

President de Gaulle's French government watched the situation closely. But government sources in Paris said the 400,000 men of the French armed forces still in Algeria would intervene only to protect any Frenchmen who were endangered.

Followers of dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella appeared to be in firm control of western Algeria and part of the east. Mohammed Khider, a member of the seven-man political bureau Ben Bella has formed for overall control of the country, told reporters in Oran the bureau will assemble in Algiers. He said he himself will head to Algiers today.

Four of the seven bureau members, all firm supporters of Ben Bella, held talks here Thursday.

Wrong Score Disqualifies Gary Player

MONTREAL (CP) — Gary Player of South Africa, U.S. PGA champion only last week, disqualified himself from the Canadian Open golf championship early today for turning in a wrong score.

Player was disconsolate over the situation when he realized long after his round that he had taken a seven at the par-five 10th hole instead of a six as he had reported in finishing his first round of the open with a 75, far behind the leaders.

Player himself reported the situation to Royal Canadian Golf Association officials late Thursday night, and a meeting was held at a motel where Player is staying with his family.

Interpreting the News

Algeria Knows No Peace

By DOUG MARSHALL, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chaos has come again to Algeria and observers fear the newly-independent nation is dangerously close to civil war.

The forces of dissident deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella now control three-quarters of the country while soldiers loyal to the provisional government of Ben Youssef Ben Khedda prepare to defend Algiers, the capital.

In the Kabylie Mountains east of Algiers Deputy Premier Belkacem Krim has denounced Ben Bella's followers as "fascists and irresponsibles" and called for a massive rally in support of the provisional government.

Meanwhile in Algeria terrified European nationals are flocking to the airport and the harbor. Kidnappings and murders have been mounting ominously.

Much now hinges on whether Ben Bella can consolidate his victories throughout the country. If he wins over all control Algeria is likely to become a rigid one-party state within the influence of Nasser's Egypt. At the same time Krim is the undisputed leader of the tough Berber population in the Kabylie Mountains. This area was the strongest bastion of resistance during the rebellion. A clash between Krim and Ben Bella would be lethal.

A third factor is the 400,000-man French army still on Algerian soil.

Sources in Paris say France has no intention of intervening to restore order. But the troops may well take action if it becomes necessary to protect French citizens.

Armed intervention, no matter how interpreted, would give Ben Bella all the pretext he needs for tearing up last March's Evian agreement and ending on-operation with France.

At the moment, despite inflammatory anti-French sentiment among his followers, he has promised to honor the agreement and severely punish Moslem kidnappers of Europeans and Jews.

Several observers in London point to the parallel between the present Algerian situation and the chaos that reigned in The Congo a week after the Belgians pulled out.

Like The Congo, the Algerian dispute seems less a conflict of principle and more a struggle for power between rival forces who distrust each other's intentions.

The wounds of 7½ years of ruthless terrorism have hardly healed in Algeria. Civil war would destroy all that President de Gaulle has sought to gain and the injuries this time could prove fatal.

Jet Deal Alarms U.S.

Nehru Approves Purchase

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru has decided to rush ahead with a plan to buy and manufacture Soviet MIG Fighters in India despite efforts of the United States and Britain to steer him off the deal, authoritative sources said Thursday.

A team of Indian experts will go to Moscow next month to open formal negotiations on the technical and financial aspects of the Soviet offer, which has been hanging fire for months. Informants said their report will be studied by the cabinet before any agreement is signed. The plan calls for the possible purchase of two squadrons of Soviet jets and setting up a plant to build more in India.

Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan talked with Nehru Wednesday during a stopover here and sources said the prime minister got the impression that Moscow is still willing to go through with the deal.

CAUSED ALARM
First reports that India was thinking of equipping its air force with Soviet fighters caused alarm in Western embassies here. U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith was reported to have told the Nehru government Washington would consider the purchase of MIGs military aid.

Nehru has always professed a policy of rejecting outside military help as distinct from economic aid.

BID FAILS
Britain tried to stave off the Indian-Soviet jet deal by offering to sell Nehru supersonic fighters but the Indians were reported to regard them as unsuitable.

Soviet experts have given an assurance that MIG-21 production could begin within 18 months or two years of signing of an agreement.

Jetliner Takes Dive, 26 Injured

AMSTERDAM (Reuters) — Twenty-six persons were injured Thursday when a New York-bound jetliner made a steep nose-dive to avoid a mid-air collision.

Airport sources said the big Pan-American Boeing 707 was at an altitude of 4,500 feet when the pilot suddenly noticed the other plane, a Dutch Air Force de Havilland Beaver.

The jet liner already had descended over eastern Holland on an approach for a stopover landing at nearby Schiphol airport.

A-Rocket Destroyed On Pad

HONOLULU (AP) — A Thor booster rocket tipped with a nuclear device was deliberately blown up on its Johnston Island launch pad Thursday night — marking the third failure in four tries to explode another high-altitude nuclear shot.

Joint Task Force 3 and the Atomic Energy Commission announced that, although the missile destruction caused pad fires, no one was injured and the blast caused no hazard from radioactivity.

Blue Untrue, Wife Claims
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — True Blue wasn't, his wife claimed in a divorce suit.

Olle Mae Blue said in the suit Wednesday that her husband, True Ralph Blue, has "been going with other women" and has ignored and neglected her. The couple were married in 1950, she said.

Allen Heads Laborers' Union
General Laborers' Union Local 1083 has elected former business agent Earl Allen president of the local.

Other executives, installed at a meeting Monday, are: Thomas Aucoin, Nanaimo, vice-president; Art Blair, Nanaimo, recording secretary; John Galloway, secretary-treasurer; Luigi Giomi, sergeant-at-arms. Executive members are Pat Hooper and C. K. Jones of Nanaimo.

Record Harvest
LONDON (Reuters) — A record Soviet grain harvest is shaping up this year despite difficulties with the weather, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Tuesday.

SHELburne, N.S. — A genealogist from Boston says Sir Winston Churchill is a descendant of Yarmouth County, N.S. pioneers. Anne Borden Harding of the New England Genealogical Society said she uncovered information showing that a Sarah Baker — born in Yarmouth in 1762 — and her Connecticut-born husband were ancestors of Jenny Jerome, who married Lord Randolph Churchill and became Sir Winston's mother.

Two Families Too Many Laments Official

MORGANTON, N.C. — William E. Cobb stood calmly amongst the wreckage of his shattered political life here Thursday and admitted it is not possible to maintain a double family life.

Cobb, 40-year-old boyish chairman of the North Carolina Republican party and a candidate for the state Senate, revealed Wednesday night that for more than two years he has maintained two homes: one here with his blonde, attractive wife of 19 years and their three-year-old adopted son; the other in Roanoke, Va., where he said he has lived with a mysterious woman he identified only as Linda, and two children born of their relationship.

"Anyone who lives under a veil of secrecy lives under a strain," he said. "Now the secrecy is obliterated and there is a certain easing of personal tensions."

GORDONSTOWN, Scotland — Prince Charles has climbed to near the top of his class at his private boarding school here in the northeast of Scotland, his headmaster said. Charles, accompanied by several school friends, caught a regularly scheduled plane at Inverness to join his parents in London for the summer holidays.

LAKEFIELD, Que. — Rev. Cyrus W. F. Baugh, Canada's oldest active Anglican minister who says he'll retire when "I get old enough," has turned 90. He was ordained 56 years ago.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A pretty mother of four will shortly learn whether she can legally abort her fifth pregnancy. Authorities promised to expedite a hearing on the plea of Mrs. Robert Finkbine, 29-year-old Phoenix television star, for a judgment allowing her to prevent birth of a child she fears may be deformed.

A Sane Voice

AS IS HIS wont Mr. Howard Green spoke up boldly at the Geneva disarmament talks this week, citing as "sheer madness" all nuclear bomb testing no matter by whom. In effect he said "a plague on all your houses" to the major powers.

Before and during the recent election opposition groups attempted to make great play about Canada's position on nuclear weapons, because of the Bomarc and this country's obligation to the NORAD alliance. There should be no doubt where Canada stands. It is opposed to nuclear bombs and would like to see them abolished.

With a tenacity that does him much credit Mr. Green has made this plain time and again, and in his indictment this week of the continued and unreal wrangling by the major powers over compromise disarmament formulas was sharp and to the point. He is undoubtedly the leading voice of the middle nations, sometimes the one sane advocate of getting to real grips with the nuclear problem.

If other national spokesmen were as honest and forthright perhaps the major nations might be persuaded to take more heed of the world-wide dissent from the current "spiralling" big-power rivalry.

Mr. Green also warned the 17-nation disarmament conference against any tendency to pass the buck to the UN General Assembly, correctly pointing out that progress would be lost there in an atmosphere of propaganda and polemic. The duty of the conference was to stick to its task and even if only by gradualness seek to win agreement in areas where this was possible.

One man who doesn't throw up the sponge is this country's foreign minister, and in Mr. Green it has a representative of whom to be proud. Would that all international delegates were equally courageous and persistent in trying to bring the nuclear nations into line.

Foreseeable Rejection

THE FATE of the Community Welfare Council's report recommending establishment of a joint commission to co-ordinate and expand recreational facilities in Greater Victoria—its virtual rejection by the intermunicipal committee—comes as no surprise.

This was foreseeable, barring a great deal of work to enlist public support and to devise and propose equitable intermunicipal arrangements in the time between presentation and consideration of the recommendations.

The report itself noted a considerable degree of public apathy, and the welfare council must have known it would have to reckon with elected representatives' antagonism toward embarking on a plan that might, and almost certainly would, involve the ratepayers of one municipality subsidizing recreation in another to a greater extent than is now the case.

There can be no doubt that an expanded and well organized recreational program with additional facilities for young and old in Greater Victoria such as the welfare council suggested after eighteen months of study would be of great benefit to the community.

Increasingly, however, it must appear to realists that a program of this desirable type likely will only be achieved through amalgamation—through the welding of Greater Victoria into the economic and social unit that it actually is but for municipal boundaries. Those who can count themselves the losers through rejection of the recreation report may well bear this in mind.

How Odd

PRESIDENT KENNEDY is at last beginning to make an impact upon the Western world outside of the United States—but as an individual rather than as head of a powerful state.

The European image that has been created of him, and perhaps for him and by him, is one of youth and vigor, strength and determination, honesty and high purpose; it is also one which elicits feelings of sympathy and understanding—even among the staid Britons.

All in all it is a mind's eye picture which any national leader with international problems would give his right arm to generate abroad. Already his European supporters have fully absolved him of any mistakes or miscalculations his administration has made or is likely to make by depicting him as a young man thwarted by a handful of old men determined to keep things as they are.

Even that aged oracle of Fleet Street, "The Observer," which has been keeping a close watch on international goings-on for nearly two centuries, draws similar conclusions. "In Europe," it says, "the old cling to power and block the younger men's ideas; in America the young are nominally in control but the old men still stand in their way."

How odd it is to learn that these are the views held by people who choose for themselves old men such as Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany (age 86), President de Gaulle of France (age 72) and Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain (age 68) to govern their own countries and guide their own destinies through the labyrinthine paths of international politics.

Changed Picture

A WEEK AGO there was one cheering offset to the gloomy prophecies of more dull and cold weather—its prevalence over the spring and into summer had helped the fire situation in the woods. Almost instantly, as though to confound us as usual, the weather changed.

With it comes renewed appeal to the careless to watch what they do when in wooded or forest areas. The warm, sunny days of this past week have increased the fire hazard, as the brush outbreaks in nearby areas remind us. These spread easily into large conflagrations if not contained quickly at the outset and continued prudence is demanded.

Warnings of this nature are apt to pall because of sheer repetition. That does not lessen their importance. And the cost of fire-fighting helps to swell the inroads on the public purse. Which means taxation.

Everyone should indulge in good husbandry in the woods, therefore; by exceeding care where campfires, matches and cigarettes are concerned.

"Talk about shutting the stable door after the horse has bolted"

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

THERE has been no little to do over the years about a Canadian flag, and, on a lesser scale, about a Canadian anthem. I have appeared into the subject myself at odd moments.

If I remember rightly Mr. Pearson promised, assuming he became the PM, to make some official decision on these two contentious matters. Office often changes the viewpoint, but as it happens he didn't become the PM, yet anyway. So presumably both flag and anthem will remain prudently in the pigeon-hole which contains ticklish topics.

A colleague suggests to me that what is more needed is a national dish, lest the notion get too far abroad that our favorite food is hamburger, with or without relish and onions.

He was being facetious, I suppose, although you never know. Our gastronomic image is doubtful.

I was persuaded the other night that what is even more important is a national costume. Where this might be found or what it might be like I confess I wouldn't know. I should seriously doubt, however, that it is a sort of RCMP yaya, as worn by Miss Canada in the televised Miss Universe contest.

I sympathize with the Bounties. They are perhaps the best police force in the world, with the most picturesque uniform. But they suffer from their eminence. They are used as "guys" for tourists. A baseball team steals their name, and they are roped into international beauty contests.

They should patent both name and uniform.

A sprightly young miss hoping to be hailed as the beautiful queen of all the world might be excused, possibly, for borrowing the glamorous image of the primary national symbol we have. Where else could she find a "national" costume?

Canada, of course, is a young country. I repeat this because although we shall be officially a hundred in a few years, and our history goes back two centuries before that, it's fashionable to talk of our youth.

But true enough it's still a melting pot wherein various ethnic strains are being united, so the national garb is missing. One will have to be invented, which will be an even harder job than picking a flag or an anthem.

Tougher than choosing Miss Universe, in fact.

As to that national costume we are wearing this. They're getting fewer as western garb, like western architecture, spreads its patina. Miss Holland, Miss China, Miss France, Miss Argentina and a few others are still able to don a traditional costume—although perhaps rescued from mothballs for the purpose—but the generality of feminine dress has no longer definable geographic boundaries. If I dared, which I don't, I'd say they were as peas in a pod.

The fashion parade has made one world for the superior sex.

Which I suppose is why they have a Miss Universe contest.

From the Scriptures

And he saith unto them, follow me, and I will make you fishers of men.—St. Matthew, 4:19.

The Economy and Politics

Party Leaders Missed a Chance

By HARRY HALLIWELL

THE report on June employment in Canada sheds new light on an issue that was in the forefront of the election campaign, and that has been strangely neglected in the post-election analysis.

Taken as a whole—and in isolation from Canada's sticky international payments situation—the employment picture is highly encouraging and bears out Prime Minister Diefenbaker's contention during the campaign that by mid-summer employment in Canada would reach high levels.

With the employment peak still a couple of months away, the mid-June figures show unemployment of just over 300,000 which is 4.5 per cent of the labor force. The reduction in unemployment from mid-May—35,000—was unusually small because of unusually large additions of young people to the labor force.

But far more interesting and enlightening is the breakdown of unemployment by regions, particularly in relation to the results of the election.

Lowest unemployment, 2.2 per cent, is in the three Prairie Provinces. While it is common to attribute the Conservative success there on June 18 to the boom in wheat sales and the tremendous popularity of Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, it shouldn't be forgotten that to pick up 40 of 48 seats, the government had to win quite a few in the cities.

In Ontario, where the government suffered substantial losses but at least held a fair block of seats—34 out of 85, compared with 63 in the last House of Commons—unemployment of 3.7 per cent was second-lowest in the land. It was slightly higher than the 3.4 per cent of mid-May.

Toronto and the Yorks led the swing away from the government in Ontario. Not to be overlooked in this are the very strong appeal of the New Democratic Party in this heavily industrialized and labor-organized area, the distrust by the business community of the western "radical" Diefenbaker (rooted deep in the past and in no way mitigated by the performance of his government), and the fact that many Toronto Tories never really accepted a winner. A prolonged period of high unemployment before the recent upswing was no help.

The relationship between unemployment and the results of June 18 is most pronounced in Quebec and British Columbia.

In Quebec, at mid-June, unemployment was still a substantial 5.6 per cent of the labor force. In British Columbia it was 5.4 per cent.

Conservative strength in Quebec dropped from the unprecedented 50 of 1958 to 15 on June 18, 1962. In British Columbia, it dropped from the 18 of 1958 to six in the new House.

What, in retrospect, was more natural than that Quebec should seek shelter under the traditional wing of the Liberal Party (35 seats) and in the radicalism of the right, Social Credit (26 seats)? British Columbia with its strong traditions of trade unionism and its heavy mixture of emigrants from Saskatchewan, just as naturally retreated to the radicalism of the left—the NDP (up from four to 10 of B.C.'s 22 seats).

On the surface, the relatively good showing of the government in the Atlantic provinces is an anomaly. It held 17 of the 33 seats, as against 25 in 1958. Unemployment in the four provinces at mid-June was the highest in the country, at 7.4 per cent.

Several factors make this situation less anomalous than it appears.

The first is that the Atlantic provinces registered the

WHAT happened in the short space of three months to alter the political climate so abruptly? This is a question that many in the Kennedy administration are asking with an almost dazed sense of the changes in the political outlook as a Congressional election approaches.

In April, the confident talk was to the effect that the Democrats might repeat the performance of 1934. For the first and only time a party in power in the White House that year increased its majorities in the Senate and the House.

That was in the initial sweep of the New Deal which carried Franklin Roosevelt in 1936 to a victory in 46 of the 48 states. The Gallup polls on preference between the parties in the spring bore out this mood. The confidence is now dissipated with successive defeats for the administration in Congress and the doubts cast on the direction of the economy. The president hopes to turn the tide by campaigning actively in at least 15 states with something of the intensity he put into his 1960 drive.

But the answer to the question haunting loyal New Frontiersmen may well be that the rosy glow on the Democratic horizon was a false dawn. It came and went with the startling suddenness of the light shed by the 200-mile-high nuclear explosion over the Pacific.

In part, the glow was based on style and manner rather

Large Helpings

By GREGORY LARK

IT will take the Canadian and United States restaurant business a long time to learn the secret of French and other high class European cookery. The secret, of course, is small helpings, say the experts.

The reason helpings are small in the great restaurants of the world is that the cookery is superb. It is quality, not quantity, that rules the meal.

In North America generally the tradition has been that to make up for the bad cooking, the helpings have been large. Quantity, rather than quality. Thus, over several generations, we have failed to produce a sufficiently large proportion of the public with experience of good cooking to largest mid-May to mid-June percentage drop in unemployment in the country—from 11.1 to 7.4 per cent. Another is that the government has made some strides in special aid to the region in the last five years and promised more—such as the caseway to Prince Edward Island—during the campaign. A third is that unemployment is chronic and of long standing in the region, not to be attributed to the behavior of any one government. And a fourth is that the Atlantic provinces are remote from the western prairie roots of Canadian radicalism of both left and right.

The real anomaly is that although the government got caught short on the foreign payments problem and had to devalue the currency during the campaign, none of the opposition parties was able to grasp the real significance of than on content and performance. The president's personal rating stood at 79, higher than General Eisenhower ever went. People liked the way in which the young, attractive Kennedy conducted himself in the White House. Their effort to make the presidency a focus for brains and culture was interesting reading, and politically it was vividly attractive.

In part, the rating was based on hope. The election had shown a division so narrow as to be almost meaningless. People hoped that the newly-elected president could undo the country and do what had to be done at home and abroad.

But what has now become evident is a condition conveniently ignored that may be central to the politics of today: Each party is so divided on geographical and ideological grounds that there are, to all intents and purposes, four parties. The Republican party of the populous Eastern seaboard is one party; the Republicans of the Midwest are another party.

Of the five Republican votes in the Senate for medical care, three came from New York and New Jersey. Of the 31 Republican votes in opposition, 21 were from the Midwest or Far West. This division is often sharply shown on issues such as foreign aid and international co-operation. The split in the Democratic Canada's economic dilemma and come up with a formula with public appeal.

By and large, even after devaluation the Liberals and the NDP continued to campaign on a program of gloom and doom, which in the light of rising employment served mainly to confuse. Social Credit capitalized on the confusion, at least in Quebec, with the bland slogan: "What have you got to lose?"

All parties seem to have underestimated the extent to which Canadians have become concerned about the economy. The country has accepted austerity, and its mood suggests it would accept more, if it is necessary.

In retrospect, it appears that if any political leader had grasped the nettle and suggested a positive program of strong medicine for the economy, he might just have swept the country on June 18. (Telegraph News Service) party is deeper and more clearly defined both by geography, as between North and South, and ideologically between liberals and conservatives. And it is the revelation of this split in vote after vote in Congress that puts the president in an embarrassing position as he faces the election. As he knows only too well, he cannot follow the precedent of Harry Truman in 1948 and attack a Congress in which his own party has a majority of 64 to 36 in the Senate and 258 to 174 in the House.

The dilemma of a president in power is precisely this intra-party division. General Eisenhower, as he took office in 1953, had Congressional majorities—48 to 47 in the Senate, 221 to 210 in the House—that were narrower. Repeatedly he found his own party split, and occasionally the split came on such questions as the appointment of an ambassador, which is normally considered executive privilege.

In the mid-term election of 1954, he set out to enlarge the Republican majorities. The result was: for the Senate, Democrats 48, Republicans 47; for the House, Democrats 232, Republicans 203.

With the president's personal popularity holding at a high level, Eisenhower campaigned strenuously in 1958 in half a dozen key states. The result was disastrous, with the Republicans losing 49 seats in the House and 13 in the Senate. The significant fact is that 1958 coincided with the major recession of the Eisenhower years and a budgetary deficit of $12.5 billion, the largest in peacetime.

But it is worth noting another fact, partly obscured by the glow of the youthful, appearing president in the White House and his personal popularity. While Kennedy won the election by a hair-breadth margin, his party lost 21 seats in the House in 1960. Any chance of finding a working majority in the Democratic party of the North and the West was probably destroyed, since the solid South, with minor exceptions returned its party to Congress.

At the time some observers predicted, and the Republicans claimed, that the loss of the 21 seats represented the beginning of a trend toward Republican conservatism. In the test of November, the president must now set out to prove that it isn't so. (Copyright, 1962, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Big Head-Start

Chosen Fifty

By CAMBRANDIA from London

THERE are over seven and a half million school children in this country, and, at a reasonable guess some 3,750,000 of them are boys.

They go to a variety of schools numbering approximately 34,000.

Of these schools there are 195 public schools, recognized as such by the Headmasters' Conference. Of the 195 only about 50 are the real seats of higher education linked with power, poise, influence and the prestige and opportunity that is made available by the old school tie.

The number of boys who attend The Chosen Fifty is not more than 25,000.

Thus, one male child in 150 in our democratic society has a flying start.

I believe this to be true.

I believe that if you have enough money you can buy a better opportunity in life for your son if you can get him into The Chosen Fifty, or The Chosen One Nine Five.

I do not say this is right. I say it is wrong.

But whether a parent sacrifices his Liberal or Socialist principles to prove a political theory and then, as sometimes happens, rejoices in "throwing the kid in the deep end to see if he can swim" (at a great personal saving of money), is another matter.

But let's see how the new Tory government has its roots in education.

Of the fifty-odd members of the reconstituted government, seventeen went to Eton. Five went to Winchester. Four went to Harrow. Two went to Marlborough. Two went to Oundle, and two went to Fettes.

Of the remainder, Merchant Taylor's, Bedford School, Downside, Ampleforth College, King's College, Brighton College, Sherborne, Tonbridge, Cheltenham College, King Edward's and the Royal Naval College all have their representatives in, or next door to, Downing Street.

That accounts for forty-three of our Tory political chieftains.

Who are the remaining bosses who do not come out of the top educational drawer? They are, indeed, thin upon the ground.

There is Bernard Braine from Hendon County School.

And Jolly good luck to them. The remainder come from good fee-paying schools that you don't get for free and, although they have much less of the renown of Eton or Harrow, are available much more easily to the rich than to the poor.

I don't believe that people are born equal—still less that they are born free.

But there are a lot of folk running our affairs who began with a 1,000 yards start in the mile race of life.

An 18-year-old boy convicted of misusing fireworks in Indiana, U.S.A., has been sentenced by the local judge to read Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" within a month.

It is not a severe sentence. There are passages of frolic and fun among the monolithic pages.

A really severe sentence would compel delinquents to read the lurid paperbacks spewed out by the likes of Mickey Spillane.

With great hesitation I offer you a desperate lullaby fragment of winning fun produced at my private joke and pun factory at Norwood.

They were working on the headline shift.

It is no excuse that my lent and jape boys had previously had a thick night out.

Their offence was in producing this suggestion for a heading on my column: "MAC'S GONE CHAT AWAY"

Costa Rica has earned the distinction of being the first country to send a woman ambassador to Britain. Now accredited to the Court of St. James is attractive Senora "Mimi" Chittenden, 43, wife of an American businessman, and long a political power in her own country. Called "Mimi" by everyone in Costa Rica (and the popular press in Britain) Senora Chittenden is often spoken of as a future president of Costa Rica—which would be another historic "first."

LETTERS to the Editor

In the early summer, when expecting British guests, I obtained from our Centennial Celebrations Society a list of major events.

A goodly showing—47 distinct "attractions" covering music, drama, art, navy, army and police displays; sports of every variety, dancing, circus, barbecues. Granted that Dudley Remus and his able assistants are doing an excellent job, one could wish for a trifle less "spectacle" and more permanency.

The large sum involved in these celebrations doubtless calls for sensational performances to attract visitors (and money) to the city; yet could we not have had more lasting mementoes of this important year in our history? For example, the development of Gorge Park into a delightful playground and safe swim-centre for the children of coming generations?

It would have been an opportunity for the husky, pseudo "Gers" (pardon me! "Gers") to don their gumboots and beards, grasp pick and shovel and at least do the ground work!

It seems to me that, after a glamorous performance, the circus will "fold its tent and silently steal away"—little remaining but the sad-looking sawdust.

Possibly I am wrong. How do other Victorians feel about it?

Union a Tragedy

Allow me to thank you for your editorial "Duty and the Senator." We think it very good indeed and well deserved.

Also we would like to say how much we appreciate the splendid reply to C. L. Barbo's letter re Americana-dians, by a youth, M. P. A. Moran. We hoped to see comment on the article so were glad to see this one.

We quite agree with him that such a union would be a tragedy in every way. They have already too much of this country.

All Too Quiet

I am glad Senator Wayne Morse has said what he did, since it has brought forth such an eloquent response through an editorial in the Colonist.

For I consider those countries which I deem so fine have kept for long years all too quiet about the truth of the matter. Ponder for a moment, had things been the other way around and how, at that time the present "wealthiest" country in the world had declared themselves quite sufficient unto themselves and craved "isolationism."

Explanation of Posh

It is quite likely that the word posh has been used by some marine instructor to assist the memories of sailor students regarding certain ports. The "Port-Outward, Starboard, Homeward" however, would only apply to particular ports and this has nothing to do with the origin of the word.

France was the first country to introduce "tabs" or "flaps" on the pockets of men's suits and these were called "poche" (French for pocket) suits and as such suits were very decorative in comparison to "non flap" suits, were generally only worn by the "dandies" at first.

These decorative suits spread to England and were still referred to as "Poche Suits". The word very soon found popularity to describe anything decorative or swanky, and it was not until the turn of this century that its popularity acquired for the word its English spelling posh, as pronounced.

Physical Fitness

The recent Junior Olympic track and field meet at the Victoria High School grounds, sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion, has clearly indicated wholesome aspirations of many boys and girls in this region.

They demonstrated their athletic prowess to competitive quality for the Vancouver finals under the Legion's commendable sponsorship. The Legion's training plan with hopeful prospects of representing Canada in future Olympic Games. Deserving the widest encouragement, the basic purpose is to promote a higher standard of physical fitness in Canada.

Our observant Prince Philip, with Commonwealth goodwill, openly pointed to this Canadian need. The Legion's worthy efforts constitute recognition of a world challenge to which there has been admirable response by the inspired youth of this island. May it continue.

Red China Forced to Leap Backwards

By EDWARD NEILAN
From Tokyo

Communist China has a constant companion, a dark shadow that never leaves. Its name is Population. Across Asia come indications of its size and Red fears. Once discarded birth control is about to be resumed as a matter of state policy.

From Shanghai come letters describing legalized abortion clinics that do a brisk business throughout the city.

From Peiping newspapers come appeals to the youth of Communist China to delay marriage until they reach their late twenties.

From refugees comes word that Chinese officials are urging birth control measures.

Communist China scorned birth control in 1956, when the Reds made a dramatic attempt to bring about a national economic revolution through a series of radical programs called the "great leap forward." Peiping planners announced a policy of unrestrained population expansion. They said China had insufficient manpower to supply the vast labor armies then being organized.

Today, however, circumstances are quite different. As the refugee surge at Hong kong indicates, population pressures are choking China. In 1958, it produced 210,000,000 metric tons of grain to feed 654,600,000 people. By 1961, grain production had dropped to 185,000,000 tons and the population had increased to 702,900,000.

Peiping abandoned its program of economic revolution and is drastically revising industrial, agricultural and manpower policies. Millions of workers have been forced out of the cities onto farms. They were deprived of their ration cards to prevent their return.

Farmers, already hard-pressed are disgruntled at the new influx of hungry mouths.

Peiping has abandoned machine techniques for a return to old methods. The regime now claims mechanical irrigation is no good and dependent on too many factors: machines that work, technicians to man and repair them and money to operate the apparatus.

The country has fallen flat on its face trying the "great leap."

National People's Congress in 1954. Little was done about it, however, until 1956, when the nation's press began publicizing its benefits.

From cautious beginnings Peiping's publicity efforts soon became extreme and at times ludicrous.

At the peak of the birth control campaign, adults were encouraged to swallow live tadpoles in order to achieve sterility.

This bizarre method was endorsed for a while by the ministry of public health in Peiping and was publicized in the Journal for Health. Near the end of 1956, however, the ministry reversed its opinion and admitted that tadpoles might not do the trick. Other contraceptives were tried, such as leeches and chloride of mercury, but most of them proved unreliable, unsafe or even poisonous, according to the Peiping newspaper Kwang Ming Daily.

Authorities finally lifted restrictions on abortions which had previously been limited to mothers of many children. By 1957 it became clear that the government's birth control program was not working.

Ironically, it was only after the Reds discarded their birth control program in 1958 that the rate of population increase began to slow. The "great leap forward" so overworked peasants that childbirth dropped.

The regime recently downgraded the minimum subsistence level to 1,300 calories a day. Western nutritionists consider this near starvation level.

Population growth has levelled off at about two per cent a year—12,000,000 to 15,000,000 more mouths to feed every 12 months. The shadow over the Red regime grows longer. But what will it eat?

China's food resources is at an all-time high. Last year, Peiping became a net importer of food grains, purchasing 5,600,000 tons from the surplus stocks of France, Canada and Australia. It has contracted for 3,600,000 in 1962.

Top U.S. officials estimate, however, that no more than 1,500,000 tons of grain remain in the Free World for Red China to buy. And this can be had only at premium prices. "China has used up most of her long term credit and foreign reserves and gobbled up most of the Free World surplus food," they say.

The idea of a national birth control program was accepted in Communist China by the

Finns Shun Red Festival

By PHIL NEWSOM
From Helsinki

Just across from Finland's parliament buildings stands a statue erected to the memory of Field Marshal Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, the national hero who assured Finland's independence from Russia.

A street and a museum have been named after him. The state-owned Marski Hotel takes its name from the affectionate nickname grateful Finns bestowed upon him.

A few blocks to the east is the domed magnificence of the Lutheran Cathedral, one of the imposing buildings of Europe.

Together, the cathedral and the memory of Mannerheim may be taken as symbols of today's Finland which is religious, conservative and with a fierce pride in independence.

To these qualities harsh reality also has dictated the necessity of firm neutrality.

It is ironic then that in the last days, by ship and by plane, have been arriving delegates to a festival which most Finns heartily wish were being held somewhere else and which many feel is a violation not only of Finnish hospitality but also of Finnish neutrality.

Although some of the delegates are remarkably elderly, this is to be the 8th international youth festival which last was held in Vienna, also a neutral capital, and which is another of those fronts common to the infiltration tactics of world communism.

The Finnish government also made clear it had no wish to play host to an event of solely political orientation, organized principally by foreign authorities.

And so it was with obvious contempt of Finnish wishes, duly noted by Finnish students, that the Iron curtain organizers of the festival formally announced that it would be held in Helsinki.

Finnish authorities hope fervently that the next week will pass peacefully and then go with as little notice as possible into history.

Unions Take Railroads To Court

CHICAGO (AP) — Rail-road operation labor sued Thursday to prevent U.S. carriers from changing working rules and threatened to strike unless the carriers called off plans to change them.

The U.S. railroad management have set Aug. 16 for enforcement of economy changes in operating practices recommended by a presidential commission.

Swiss Guides Recover Body After Plunge

KLEINE SCHEIDEGG, Switzerland (Reuters)—Two Swiss guides Thursday found the smashed body of a British climber a few hours after he fell 2,000 feet to his death on the nearby Elger Mountain.

Two British climbers were helping the dead man's companion down from the spot on the fog-shrouded mountain where he had collapsed exhausted.

The dead man was identified as Barry Brewster, 22, and his companion, also British, as Barry Nally, 25.

Brewster was hurt in a 300-foot fall Wednesday. Yesterday he fell the 2,000 feet to his death after a night in a makeshift bivouac.

The two men were on the "killer" north wall of the 13,026-foot Elger. After Brewster's second fall, Nally made his way down the wall without a rope toward a Swiss rescue team working their way up to him. But then he collapsed exhausted with his head hanging down over a rock.

As fog closed in and hampered rescue operations, Bonington and Whillans reached Nally. Members of the Swiss rescue party were searching the foot of the mountain for the body of his companion.

Open Schools, Judge Orders

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—U.S. District Judge Oren R. Lewis yesterday ordered Prince Edward County schools reopened. The public system has been shut down since 1959 to avoid court-ordered racial integration.

Prince Edward's schools, Lewis ruled, "may not be closed to avoid the effect of the law of the land as interpreted by the supreme court, while the commonwealth of Virginia permits other public schools to remain open at the expense of the taxpayers."

OPEN TO ALL
Lewis ordered Prince Edward's school board to complete plans for the admission of pupils in the elementary and high schools of the county "without regard to race or color and to receive and consider applications to this end at the earliest practical date."

POWERFUL BEARS

Polar bears have been clocked at 25 miles an hour running on ice, and have been known to swim 300 miles between floes.

200 Cycles Come to End

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The city's champion bicycle thief—that's what police called Nathaniel L. Cooley, 15, who was sent to a reformatory Wednesday by a judge. He told police he stole, then abandoned, 200 bicycles in three years, but police said they've never found any.

Carpenters, Contractors In Accord

VANCOUVER (CP)—Contractors and union negotiators Thursday reached an agreement aimed at forestalling a province-wide carpenters' strike.

The agreement would not affect Greater Victoria area carpenters who work under a separate contract, but covers those working from Duncan north on Vancouver Island.

Each side agreed to recommend their members accept a contract calling for a 22-cent hourly increase over two years.

Carpenters would get 10 cents an hour immediately and another 12 cents next April. Present basic wage for carpenters is $2.92 an hour.

Carpenters originally asked for a 42-cent increase, but scaled this down to 25 cents over two years.

$500 Bail Set In Theft Case

Bail of $500 was set in city police court yesterday for a man charged with pilfering from parked cars at the Ingham Hotel parking lot.

Ivan Keyes, who gave his address as 924 Market, reserved plea on charges of theft and attempted theft.

Keyes lost his bid for release on his own recognizance when prosecutor Angus Smith objected.

Keyes is charged with stealing a coat and cigarette lighter from the car of Richard Popham, 560 Selkirk, and attempted theft from a car belonging to Norman J. Shepherd, 1280 Glynn Road. He was taken into custody after a waiter at the hotel spotted someone prowling through cars parked on the lot at 12:10 a.m. yesterday.

Prayer Ban Paves Way For Atheism—Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Five senators predicted yesterday that the supreme court's prayer decision was a legal curtain-raiser which could eventually end the use of chaplains, the singing of the national anthem, and make atheism a national policy.

STEPS URGED

The senators urged Congress to take one of two steps: Either pass a resolution expressing its anger, or approve a constitutional amendment nullifying the court ruling.

Sens. Kenneth B. Keating, John C. Stennis, A. Willis Robertson, J. Glenn Beall and Strom Thurmond all testified against the court ruling in hearings before the senate judiciary committee.

RULING PROBED

The committee is holding sessions on a series of resolutions and amendments designed to invalidate the court ruling.

Stennis said he felt the decisions "which will increase court's ruling was just the ingly erode our spiritual heritage beginning of a long line of rage."

Sea Calls Ex-Farmer To Return to Paradise

A South Seas adventure will begin Wednesday for a 49-year-old ex-farmer when he sets sail from Fishermen's Wharf for Nukualofa in the Tonga Islands.

Burnett Chalmers will make the voyage aboard the ketch-rigged, 30.6 foot Toloa, a Vancouver-registered vessel with a gross weight of 7.41 tons.

Capt. Paul Shives of the B.C. government ferry Mv Sidney will accompany Mr. Chalmers on the two-week trip to San Francisco—first leg of an intended round the world trip.

Mr. Chalmers has arranged for a two-man crew to sail from San Francisco to Honolulu and one man to accompany him from there to Tahiti.

He will be met by his Tonga-born wife and two-year-old daughter Lillian at Nukualofa, where the family will stay for a year or two. Then plans call for an extended cruise which will end on the Atlantic coast.

Mr. Chalmers was born at Stratford, Ont. and it is in that vicinity his family may eventually settle.

BACHELOR TOUR

From 1948 to 1956 he farmed wheat 30 miles north of Calgary. He then sold out, set off on a bachelor tour and ended up in the Tonga Islands where he found a bride.

Mr. Chalmers has drawn up a long list of provisions which include meat, bread, milk, fresh fruit, tea, coffee and skim milk. Perishables will be stored in the boat's cool lower lockers.

If the 110 gallons of fresh water the Toloa carries in her tanks run out, plastic drip cloths and a number of containers will be used to catch rain water.

"We'll even collect water in the dinghy if we have to," said the skipper.

A sturdy beauty, the Toloa is planked with yellow cedar and trimmed with oak and mahogany. He mainmast is 35 feet tall and she carries three sails of sails. A diesel auxiliary provides insurance against doldrums.

She is equipped with three radios. One is a radio-phonograph run by battery power to keep the crew entertained with popular music and songs of the South Sea Islands.

Firemen Flown In

OMAK, Wash. (AP)—A helicopter was brought in Thursday to ferry crews seeking to contain a stubborn 6,000-acre fire on nearly impassable terrain on the Colville Indian reservation. Fresh storms, on the wake of one that brought hundreds of lightning strikes in north-eastern Washington and north Idaho, spread the fire threat throughout the region.

Room for Four For the Fair

There were still four empty seats yesterday on Seattle fair tour leaving here at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

The sponsoring body is Capital City Travel Club, a non-profit organization. The party returns to Victoria Sunday at 11:30 p.m.

Turncoat Ante Raised

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China Thursday offered rewards ranging up to $700,000 in gold to Nationalist Chinese who defect to the mainland with planes or ships.

The reward offers, exceeded those made by the Nationalists to defecting Communists.

But the Nationalists have had two recent occasions to make such payments and the Communists have not.

When Communist Chinese pilot Liu Chien-wei landed his MIG-15 fighter on Formosa last March, he received 3,000 ounces of gold, worth about $100,000.

Herman Takes Inventory

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP)—Police awakened 72-year-old Herman Ashenbach as he slept on a park bench Thursday and took him in for vagrancy.

Canadians Outside?

U.S. Shields Lumber

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, reacting to increasing sales of Canadian lumber in the U.S. market, set up a program Thursday to aid the U.S. industry.

President Kennedy outlined his program to 14 Democratic senators and U.S. representatives from the northwest. He said it is designed "to increase employment, improve efficiency, and raise earnings" through both immediate and long-range actions.

One measure is the establishment of a preference for U.S. lumber in lumber purchases by the federal government. Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Dem. Wash.) said this alone could "mean millions of board feet of lumber sales" to the U.S. industry.

Kennedy told the Congress members he will ask the tariff commission to wind up as quickly as possible an investigation to determine whether softwood lumber should be granted higher tariff protection.

There had been talk of imposition of temporary quotas or voluntary agreements on import restrictions, but the White House statement on the president's program said nothing about these.

ington, Oregon, California, Idaho and Montana.

Canadian competition for the market on the U.S. East Coast has worried U.S. lumber companies. Some estimates put the Canadian share of this market now at more than 70 per cent.

Britain, Europe Hurdle Commonwealth Obstacle

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Ministers negotiating Britain's entry into the Common Market went back into conference Thursday night after overcoming the biggest hurdle in the talks—special treatment for the British "temperate" Commonwealth partners.

The six—France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, Belgium and The Netherlands—agreed to special concessions for Canada, Australia and New Zealand if world commodity agreements had not been signed by 1970.

British and Common Market officials agreed that if the problem of alternative markets could be solved, Britain's entry into the trading group was virtually assured.

The special arrangements which the Common Market could make would take the form of commodity agreements between the Commonwealth and the Commonwealth and

10,000 Hogs Slaughtered

By ABOS MACKENZIE
OTTAWA (CP)—Doubts is expressed here that the government will slap an embargo on imported American raw pork because of the current hog cholera outbreak in central Canada.

So far, compensation for more than 10,000 Ontario and Quebec hogs slaughtered in the disease-control program has cost roughly $236,000, officials said Thursday.

At headquarters, they asked him to empty the pockets of his overcoat: jacket and trousers.

This is what he took out: A groundhog's foot and tail, baby pacifier, mascara kit, two balloons, cap pistol, golf ball, five spoons, three jars of salmon eggs, fishing reel, fish hooks, two steak knives, a fork, a lady's pin, three handkerchiefs, a compass and five can openers.

Also a swimming suit, a transistor radio that didn't work, two pairs of sunglasses—one without lenses—a can of lighter fluid, two pipes, pack of cigarettes, cigarette lighter, train ticket, four hats, a junior stewardess pin.

He also had three cents.

Fishing gets better and then, all of a sudden, there is a slack couple of days. Then it comes again.

Every place on the island is having its hot periods and its cold periods, and any place on the island just now is a good bet for fishing fun, but none can be classed as a sure thing. The pattern changes every day.

The fisherman with a fast boat has a better chance of getting fish because he can try a number of places, but the persistent fisherman who likes to stay close to camp or home port can also hit into some hot fishing just now.

Charlie Newman, well-known Prospect Lake turkey farmer, was one of those who hit it lucky Tuesday in Misery Bay in Finlayson Arm. He boated a 29 1/4-pounder, a 22-pounder, a 21 1/2 and a 5 1/4 for his limit and lost a couple of big ones. His trick was 125 feet of line, planer and Minnow-Tearer.

Saanich Inlet fishing, especially in lower Finlayson Arm waters, has been good this year, perhaps the best in 10 or 12 years, and it is continuing good.

Although Finlayson Arm has been producing the lion's share of Inlet fish it is quite good all over the Inlet for both coho and spring.

The time for big fish in the Oak Bay to Sooke waters is here at last and it is the time that often sees a keen race for spring salmon lead in the King Fisherman contest.

This is the week to start probing the tyee pool at Campbell River. Earliest date tyee have been taken in the tyee pool is July 27. Usually Campbell River gets the first tyee, then Comox and the Alberni Inlet follow with tyee within a matter of days.

Campbell River area is in the middle of a pretty hot run of coho and fishermen believe that a hot salmon fishing closure in the area in waters above Campbell River, which went into effect July 15 may be the reason for the better fishing.

Shelter Point produced a 38-pound tyee at the weekend and coho fishing has been improving there. Oyster Bay, Bennett's Point, Saratoga Beach, Miracle Beach, Bates Beach and Little River at Comox are all providing good but sometimes spotty coho fishing.

Qualicum and Northwest Bay waters were fair at the weekend and then fell off with hot weather and northwest winds.

Big springs are being taken off Genoa Bay and coho in Cowichan Bay and Sansum Narrows.

Port Renfrew's annual salmon derby is under way with spring salmon and coho competitions continuing until Sept. 30.

Some spring salmon are showing in the bay and just a few miles up the coast from Port Renfrew, off Carmanah Point at the Bonilla Line fishing boundary coho are schooling in great numbers.

Tunnel diggers and construction workers are on double shifts through this weekend to prepare for the big blast which will start the Big Qualicum off as the world's first temperature and flow controlled salmon spawning river. Two tunnel plugs, one 75 feet below lake level, the other 25 feet below lake level will be blown next week.

Water will immediately flow from Heron Lake through the tunnel to the Big Qualicum River and a $2,000,000 salmon farming experiment will commence operation.

The Big Qualicum River is expected to rise three or four feet within three or four days. A flushing of debris and silt is anticipated to leave ideal gravel conditions for fall spawning salmon runs, and then the flow will be cut back to 200 to 300 cubic feet per second.

Fisheries authorities say the unseasonal fresher will bring no harm to coho fry which now fill the river.

Immediate aim is to let enough water through the tunnel so the level of Horne Lake may be dropped a foot a day to 25 feet below its normal level to provide room for emergency water storage in case of a heavy winter flood season which could result in washing out of eggs or fry from spawning beds.

Temperature control will be obtained by releasing water from any of three lake levels. This is especially important in summer months, when millions of fry die in B.C. rivers and streams because they become trapped in pools which become too warm for their survival.

Present outlet of the Big Qualicum River from Horne Lake, which features the scenic falls, will dry up almost immediately. Fry survival is the big objective of the first $1,245,000 stage of the project. Without any great river bed improvement work, just flow control, fisheries scientists believe they can more than double the maximum spawning escapement which has only been reached occasionally in past years, to 200,000 salmon on the Big Qualicum.

Cowan Still Amateur

MONTREAL (CP) — The beam employed in Toronto by a Royal Canadian Golf Association announced today it saw no reason to take any action regarding the amateur status of Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Canadian amateur champion last year.

Question of Cowan's status had come before the RCGA committee on amateur status, golfing ability figured in Cowan's work.

Amateur rules state no income must be derived directly or indirectly due to a person's ability or skill as a golf player.

Duncan Milliken of Montreal, chairman of the committee, said no evidence was found that Cowan had any work.

Knudson Leads Open

By W. E. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — George Knudson, slender, 145-pound Toronto professional whose big ambition is to win his country's national golf tournament, shot a sensational five-under-par 67 Thursday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of the $30,000 Canadian open championship.

The 25-year-old Torontonian not only administered a severe drubbing to par over Laval-sur-le-Lac's course but did it in rain and thunderstorms and against an international field of more than 150.

Four pros from the United States pulled into second place with 68 behind Knudson.

South Africa's formidable Gary Player, winner only last Sunday of the U.S. PGA championship, saw more than 50 contestants finish ahead of his 75 and was openly disappointed with his day's work.

BRUCE BRILLIANT

Bobby Bruce of Milwaukee earned honors to head up the 69 brigade with a brilliant eagle-three wedge shot from 120 yards at the 18th.

With him at the three-under-par figure were Don Fairfield of Perdido Bay, Fla. Ron Thomas of Durham, N.C., and Bury George Bayer of Miami, who was in the tail end of the field.

Despite the miserable weather conditions, 19 players bettered par. Five in the 70 bracket included Nick Westlock of Toronto who had low-amateur honors all his own by two strokes.

The 70 group also included the U.S. open winner, Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, and little Wilf Homenick of Winnipeg, who sloshed unheralded along the back nine in 33, three under par.

Player was a disappointed man when he finished in early evening. He said he was going about his shots incorrectly and was "flying them."

FRANK KNUDSON

Rob Knudson of Portland, Ore., who shot a 71 and was in the threesome with the Toronto pro and Nicklaus said "Knudson was marvellous."

Knudson missed par only once on his tour of the rain-drenched course. He shot 35-32 against Laval's pars at 36 each way.

His first birdie came at the 547-yard par-five fourth where he reached the green in two and was down in two putts. At the short seventh he dropped a 15-footer for a birdie deuce.

Down the back nine, with the sun shining most of the way, Knudson rattled off four birdies and five pars.

"I want to win the Canadian open more than any other tournament," he said.

Fairfield gave the course and weather an artistic lacing in the rain on the front nine with a three-under-par 33. He finished in clearing weather with a back-nine par 34.

MENACES CAMERAMAN

Fairfield missed par only once on his soggy tour—at the par-four 15th where he three-putted from 15 feet. On his first putt there was a clanking sound from a TV camera. When he holed out Fairfield waved his putter menacingly at the camera man perched on an elevated stand.

Bruce took 37 going out but came streaking home in 32 as the weather began to clear. He birdied the 13th and 15th and finished with his eagle at the 484-yard 18th.

Al Belding, Toronto pro who makes the tour, scored a 33 coming home to finish with 71. Bob Goody of Perdido Bay, Fla., runner up to Player in the PGA last Sunday, had trouble almost throughout, finding only one birdie in finishing with a 76.

Make Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two soccer players who received two-year suspensions from the British Columbia soccer commission have registered a joint appeal.

Errol Crossan and John Woods were suspended after they refused to play in the B.C. all-star team in a dispute over payment.

Jackie Steel who received a one-year suspension for pulling out of the all-star team after an argument with officials had filed an appeal earlier.

Garden Notes

Roses ARE Shrubs

By M. V. CHENNET, FRMS

It is hard for the average gardener to realize the rose is actually a shrub. Certainly, when we are shopping for shrubs, we never think of roses, yet they make woody growth which would be more or less permanent if we didn't prune so drastically. We tend to treat our roses as semi-herbaceous perennial flowering plants rather than as shrubs.

I think this is quite right and proper, insofar as the cultivated hybrid teas and floribundas are concerned, for these plants are not good mixers and certainly don't belong in a hedge or shrub border—the queen of flowers must have a special bed to herself. Her ancestors, though—the wild or species roses—are in fact flowering shrubs and very good ones, too.

These shrub roses don't need to take a back seat from any flowering shrub in the nursery catalogue. With their diversity in size, form and texture, some with colored foliage, some with bright winter bark and all with very colorful fruits or "hips," they make excellent candidates for the shrub border or even for an informal, untrimmed hedge.

They require much less care than their aristocratic relatives; pruning is a haphazard, once-in-a-while removal of dead canes, they require no more fancy feeding than a lilac or a cotoneaster and most of the shrub roses are either immune or resistant to bugs, aphids and disease organisms.

Think of the wild rose in your particular homeland, wherever that may be. Whether it is the briar rose or dog rose of Britain, the rosa blanda of Ontario, the prairie rose—provincial floral emblem of Alberta—or the shining rose of Newfoundland, it would light up your shrub border every bit as colorfully as, say, your spiraea, barberry or cotoneaster.

There are dozens of such roses, with flowers and foliage as varied as the azaleas, and all as hardy as a Scotch pine.

The burnet or Scots rose is a grand shrub in itself, but some of its hybrids are even more interesting. Frueling's Gold, for instance, makes a well-formed bush some four feet tall which literally covers itself in summer with lovely golden cup-shaped single flowers, perfuming the air with the clean fragrance found only in the wild roses.

The alba rose, actually rosa spinosissima alba, is a cousin of the true Scots rose but comes from the steppes of Central Asia. It grows six feet in height, bearing single creamy white flowers followed by large, showy black fruits which hang on all winter.

I think the longest-blooming of all the shrubs in our garden is a rugosa hybrid rose called Flamingo. It is not as profuse as some of the shrub roses, but is never without blooms from June until November. Flamingo is a man-made cross between the prickly rosa rugosa and the hybrid tea rose White Wings, making a five-foot shrub with blossoms in a deep flamingo pink.

Father Hugo's rose, rosa Hugonia, has long been a favorite of mine even though the blooms are about over by the end of June. A native of central China, it makes a six-foot shrub with graceful, arching sprays studded with delicate single yellow flowers, starting in early May.

Alberta isn't the only province to select a wild rose as its floral emblem. The provincial flower of Newfoundland is rosa nitida, the shining rose, with smallish rose-red blooms, scarlet spines and probably the prettiest foliage of any member of the rose family. The leaves are small, very shiny, dark green in summer, turning to red or purple in the fall.

SHEILAH GRAHAM Reports from Rome

Burton, Bardot May Team

ROME (NANA)—Richard Burton and Brigitte Bardot have been offered "The Empty Canvas," by producer Carlo Ponti. It's the Albert Moravia story about an artist who is destroyed by a woman who makes a habit of destroying morally and somewhat physically the men in her life. Anyone we know?

Elizabeth Taylor returned here to meet Burton after his Egyptian location filming of "Cleopatra," which practically winds up the shooting of this movie.

Froth to Substance

Oklahoma! Trend Lasts

By DAVE MCINTYRE

HOLLYWOOD — In the old days, Hollywood's idea of a musical comedy was to hire as many pretty dancing girls as a sound stage could accommodate, contract for a string of songs from a topflight composer, and tie the singing-dancing sequences together with as little story as possible. These were often pleasant if unchallenging entertainments, the success of which more often than not depended on the appeal of the personalities.

There was Ruby Keeler, smiling her way out of the chorus line to toe-tapping, heel-clicking stardom... Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire in a swirling Carolee all the way down to Rio... Nelson Eddy serenading Jeanette MacDonald on a windup hill while a 50-piece orchestra hid in the underbrush.

a line of high-kicking girls when Jackie Gleason and Ed Sullivan were providing the same at home?

Big screen musicals went into a postwar decline. At the same time, there was a significant reversal in form of musicals for the stage. Pioneered by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II with "Oklahoma!" the stage musical gained in stature and substance.

The book or storyline became more than just a bridge between songs. Tunes and script were fused into a dramatic entity.

Now, motion pictures have discovered that they can make excellent use of this material, if properly handled.

So, a new prosperous era for the motion picture musical has been born, one that is giving us "West Side Story," "The Music Man," "My Fair Lady," "Camelot," and more to come.

The trend should be lasting. It rests on very solid ground.

Congress and the Airplane

$10,000? Certainly!

By CHARLES McDOWELL, JR.
From Washington

Around the turn of the century Samuel P. Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, appeared before the Congressional appropriations committee with his annual budget request.

After he had presented his estimates he was asked if there was anything else he would like to present to the committee.

"Yes, Mr. Chairman. I would like to have $10,000 to experiment in building a flying machine," said Professor Langley.

"Great heavens," a committee member exclaimed, "a flying machine to ride up in the air?"

"He did not have to argue or make elaborate explanations. The subcommittee agreed to the appropriation, the full committee accepted the recommendation, and the House and Senate made the appropriation.

Professor Langley Merely Had to Ask

That is all there was to it—the money was appropriated and Professor Langley built an airplane. The Langley plane crashed after a short flight in 1903, and the Wright Brothers succeeded later the same year. To prove that Langley and Congress were on the right track, the Wright Brothers later took the old Langley machine from its place in the national museum and made it fly over the National Capitol to let the Congress see that it had not thrown away that $10,000.

Perhaps the most interesting point in all this now is not how the first airplane was invented but how casually Congress appropriated the first money for an airplane. The government has progressed greatly since those days.

Today—if the airplane had not been invented and if Langley came along with his request for money—the situation would be different. First, the Bureau of the Budget would frown on the Smithsonian's getting into the weapons-development business. When word of Langley's idea got around, the National Security Council would meet and the Joint Chiefs of Staff would hit the ceiling.

The Army would ask for $1,000,000 to study the practicability of flying. The Navy would demand the same amount of money for battleships and try to get some money to experiment on an airplane, too. A movement would begin in Congress to establish a special agency to co-ordinate everything.

There would be a Congressional investigation of the whole idea of flying, and several statesmen would become famous on the contention that it was impossible and probably un-American.

Meanwhile, the appropriations and armed services committees of the House and Senate would hold interminable hearings and bicker at one another a great deal. Finally, over the opposition of the buggy, automobile and bird-lover lobbies, Congress and the Air Force would be left with

At the same time, the Army would get several millions to avoid hurt feelings, the Navy would get four new battleships and 35 new admirals, and the Air Force would be established as a separate service.

If these modern techniques of government had been in effect in 1903, Professor Langley might have invented the airplane by 1915, and meanwhile the Wright Brothers would have been arrested as spies.

Ignore Report On Firemen Curtis Storms

Ald. Austin Curtis said last night he will recommend the city pay "no attention whatever" to a warning that Victoria needs more firemen and equipment.

He said the report prepared by the Canadian Underwriters' Association—containing more than 30 recommendations that could cost the city more than $250,000 according to conservative unofficial estimates—was "entirely unofficial."

NOT INVITED

"I would like to know who these people think they are; after all, they came in here completely uninvited," the chairman of the fire wardens committee told the Colonist.

Ald. Curtis added: "I will recommend to the (fire wardens) committee that we pay no attention whatever to the report or its recommendations."

ALL FOR NOW

"That's all I have to say for the present, but I wish to say it in the strongest possible terms."

He said the $250,000 unofficial estimate for new equipment and facilities was conservative and added the total figure could reach well over $1,000,000 if new waterworks proposals were included.

"WE DON'T KNOW"

"It could go to $2,000,000 or even $3,000,000 in total, we don't know," said Ald. Curtis.

There is some concern at City Hall, however, that if Victoria fails to implement the underwriters' recommendations fire insurance rates will sharply increase. This has happened in similar instances elsewhere in Canada.

WELL TRAINED

The report said Victoria's firemen are well trained and led but there just aren't enough of them.

Among major recommendations were:

- A substantial increase in the number of firemen;
- Construction of a new fire hall at Cook and Hillside, bringing the number to four;
- Re-location of the Burnside fire hall to John and Tillamook;
- Replace old fire trucks and add to the fleet;
- Substitute a 3,000-gallon-per-minute fireboat for present watercraft coverage by annual contracting of fire tug assistance;

- Increase the number of street alarm boxes;
- Replace the fire department's outdated radio system;
- Continue and expand programs of improving water mains and fire hydrant services.

WELL EQUIPPED

Fire department fairly well equipped, but equipment old and seriously lacking in manpower. The total number of additional firemen was not specified. Replacement of all apparatus over 15 years old was recommended.

Highland Pageant Will Be Colorful

Saturday will be a big day for the heather as more than 350 kilned competitors take part in the centennial highland games at Macdonald Park.

"This is a record entry," said games association spokesman Alec MacLeod Baird. "Competitors have registered from as far away as Toronto and San Francisco. We're looking forward to a colorful and exciting day."

HURDLE RACING

For the first time the popular junior olympics inaugurated last year, will include hurdle racing. Starting time has been advanced from 1 p.m. to 11 a.m.

Canadian Scottish and the Seattle Pipe Bands will present feature performances of piping and drumming. A special dance number by Mrs. Adeline Duncan's dancers will salute Victoria's centenary.

Petition Circulates

Sweepstake Drive Well Under Way

Operation Sweepstake is making rapid progress in Greater Victoria as 45 auto-graph hunters continue to collect signatures for a petition to legalize sweepstakes in Canada.

"In our first week of operation we have collected over 500 signatures," said H. P. Wilson, 643 Harbinger, the organization's man-in-Victoria.

"Petition forms for 4,000 signatures are now in the hands of persons who have expressed interest in them," he said. "We are now trying to interest people up-Island in our movement."

Plans are to send petitions to Ottawa requesting the federal government to amend the criminal code to legalize sweepstakes in Canada for the support of hospitals.

It is hoped the petition will be brought up for debate at the next session of parliament.

'How Can They Lose?'

Barricaded Motel Offers Road as Gift

By JACK FRY

A harassed View Royal motel owner who spent $25,000 on a paved road linking Highways 1 and 1A yesterday offered to give it to the provincial government for nothing.

"They can have it free if they will just agree to maintain it and keep it open," the embattled innkeeper told the Colonist.

He said government acceptance would benefit B.C. by increasing the tax take from a depressed motel area and give the general public a new means of access to View Royal.

HOW TO LOSE?

"How can they lose?" asked Herbert Plasterer, owner of the Canadian Crest, 340 Island Highway.

His interest is to revitalize the View Royal tourist industry which has been waning ever since the area was bypassed by construction of the new Trans-Canada Highway.

But a highways official indicated last night the government might look the gift horse in the mouth.

NOT LIKELY

Deputy highways minister H. T. Mard said it was "unlikely" the government would consider taking over the new road and maintaining it as a link between Highways 1 and 1A.

He declined to comment on whether he thought there was any chance of working out another way to keep the road open.

Dispute over the new road running into the Trans-Canada Highway about five miles from Victoria came into the open Wednesday when the highways department blockaded it with five posts.

HAS NO PERMIT

Highways officials said Mr. Plasterer has no permit for either the access road or a number of signs which were posted on his property beside the highway.

But the motel man said he had a verbal order from former district engineer A. F. Provenzano who died May 24 in an airplane crash.

He also said a commercial paving firm made a written application to the department before connecting the asphalt road to the Trans-Canada.

VERBAL APPROVAL

And he claimed district engineer J. P. Hagus recently gave him verbal authorization to pave 50 feet of the highway shoulder at the entrance to the disputed access road.

Mr. Plasterer said he is tempted to put up another sign until his dispute is resolved. "Sorry for the inconvenience."

He bought his motel beside the Island Highway three years ago but found the only times the "no vacancy" sign went up was when city motels were overflowing.

MORE CUSTOMERS

He decided to put a road through to the Trans-Canada Highway in order to get more customers.

Fun Will Be Free At Centennial Mall

The accent will be on free entertainment at the Centennial Mall to be put up on Broad Street between Fort and Broughton as part of the celebrations from July 28 to Aug. 4.

At the Fort Street entrance a 20-by-20-foot stage will be built, and there will be something for everyone throughout the week.

MALL DECORATED

The mall will be decorated in the centre with a planter and fountain. It will be strung with colored lights, pennants, flower baskets and bunting.

Entertainment will be from 2 p.m. until approximately 5 p.m. each day. Light refreshments will be available.

The mall has been arranged by the special events division along with the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Following is the entertainment at the mall.

July 28: 2 to 3 p.m. Gerry Gaseley's Smile Show; 3 to 3.15 Burt Reynolds, co-star of Riverboat and co-star on the fall Gimsnake series; 3.15 to 4 p.m. Gerry Gaseley's Smile Show.

Smiles and Frowns

Saanich MP Backs Bingo, Bucks Sweeps

Bingos and sweepstakes had Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton smiling on one side of his face and frowning on the other yesterday.

Contacted by the Colonist on Salt Spring Island, where he is spending his vacation, he said he will press the national government for less stringent bingo regulations if asked to do so by members of his constituency.

MP BALKS

At the same time Mr. Chatterton balked at legalizing sweepstakes.

Earlier this week Attorney-General Robert Bonner said amendments of the bingo provisions of the Criminal Code can be made only in Ottawa.

He advised parties interested in lobbying for less stringent regulations to "sell" their members of parliament or make direct representation to the national government.

AGAINST GAMBLING

Mr. Chatterton said that while he is "personally against gambling," he would not like to see charities deprived of this means of raising money.

"If I get a formal request I would certainly give con-

MAJOR COMPLAINT

Major complaint by the attorney-general has been that many charities play "regularly" rather than "irregularly."

Some groups advertise them as being held once a week.

The attorney-general's department says as long as present regulations are on the books they have to be enforced.

When it came to the question of sweepstakes Mr. Chatterton said he considered these a poor source of raising money for hospitals.

UNRELIABLE

"Gambling is first of all an unreliable source of income for such an important service as hospitals," he said. "They should not be dependent on it for their operations."

A group headed by H. P. Wilson of 643 Harbinger is at present spearheading a campaign for signatures on the Island asking the federal government to legalize the sweeps in Canada.

Gallery On Alert

Greater Victoria Art Gallery officials have hired special daytime guards as a temporary security measure following a recent non-hour theft of three paintings worth $3,500.

The guards were hired pending a review of the situation by the board of directors, art gallery curator Colin Graham said yesterday.

At nighttime, an elaborate electronic device "equal to the best found anywhere" keeps watch over the premises.

Mountain View

Happy Ending In Home Issue

The city's Mountain View Home has finally closed its doors on a happy note.

Ald. Lily Wilson yesterday told the health and welfare committee she visited the men who were transferred to private hospitals and homes and found them all happy.

ALL SENT OFF

Twelve were sent to private hospitals, nine to the Salvation Army's Matsun Sunset Lodge, one to an acute hospital, and three others to private homes in the area.

City welfare administrator William Huxson reported the last man moved out of Mountain View Home July 13.

Last of the staff will leave by the end of this month leaving only a caretaker.

COUNCIL TO DECIDE

The committee recommended to council the empty building be placed in the hands of the city lands commissioner. Council will shortly decide what is to be done with it.

Yesterday's committee meeting gave strong indication the four-acre city-owned site in Oak Bay municipality will likely be developed for high-rise apartments in the foreseeable future.

Lifeless Union Bay Waits For 'Go' on Bright Future

UNION BAY—The 200 inhabitants of this lifeless old Vancouver Island mining town wait with bated breath today for word that a multi-million-dollar pulp mill complex will drive away the haunting spectre of the ghost town.

And from all indications Canadian Collieries Ltd. will take the step to raise the symptoms of rigor mortis which set in here with the rapid obsolescence of "black gold."

Indications that the company will breathe new life into the old town in an announcement expected later today can be seen at every hand.

But that only intensifies the tension of a population that has been waiting . . . waiting . . . waiting for an industry to replace the dwindling coal economy.

The historic docks which were used in the 1890s to serve the thriving coal industry and which have become a Union Bay landmark to thousands of Island Highway travellers are in the process of being dismantled.

Crews were at work yesterday salvaging the 70 foot piles (worth more than $2 a foot) which will be shipped to build a new wharf for the Canadian Collieries Squamish mill.

Only part of the wharf will be demolished now, because Comox Mining, the syndicate which took over the Cumberland Tumble coal mine when it was abandoned by Canadian integrating Union Bay community has been uppermost in the minds of legislators for years, and all industrial planning reports recommend Union Bay as a logical site.

An industry for the dis-

A steel mill has often been mooted for the area, and at one time seemed close to reality. Survey crews have been at work in the area periodically in the past few years and actual wharf removal work and moving of the community hall has been under way since late June.

Collieries, is still using it to load scows.

The company has been ordered to move and is in the process of building a new jetty at Buckley Bay, just a few miles to the south.

Rumors a new pulp mill will be established in Union Bay are strengthened by the fact Canadian Collieries recently negotiated to take back the ball ground and community hall grounds the Union Bay Community Club held on a 99-year lease.

Not only did the collieries exchange the property, but also paid for removal of the huge community hall to a new site across the road.

Canadian Collieries is said to be the third largest timber holder in B.C. and much of it is on Vancouver Island. The company owns most of the Union Bay area and the homes.

Since large-scale coal mining was abandoned there has been no major industry to support Union Bay.

Now residents hope a pulp mill will provide full employment and more. The 70 men left unemployed when Crown Zellerbach closed down its historic Fanny Bay steam mill last winter would also find employment here.

New Flavor For Drinks

A few spoonfuls of canned non-juice, sugar to taste, 1/2 cup of milk, 1 small scoop of apple sauce are worth saving for a refreshing summer drink. Place in an electric blender container 3 tablespoons of apple sauce, 1/2 teaspoon of lemon juice, sugar to taste, 1/2 cup of milk, 1 small scoop of vanilla ice cream and a dash of salt. Blend until thick and frothy. Serve dusted with cinnamon.

No Guesswork In Promotion

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. P. R. Kidd scoffs at the so-called barriers facing women in business. And she advises career girls to do the same.

Recently appointed assistant secretary of the new British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, Mrs. Kidd brings to it a credo long fixed in her way of life.

"There is absolutely no disadvantage in being a woman," interviewed in her Vancouver office—she has another in Victoria—Mrs. Kidd said most of the difficulties women encounter in jobs can be traced to attitude, rather than capability.

"If you're intensely interested in a job and are prepared to learn more about it—that's half the battle."

"There's no guesswork in promotion, you know. You have to show you are capable of doing the job and prepared to take additional responsibility."

To advance, you have to try. And most women don't, says Mrs. Kidd.

"They don't go into a job with the idea that it can lead to a position with professional standing."

"And sometimes they don't realize that they have a flair for some certain job until they're pitch-forked into it."

Mrs. Kidd always applied for positions if she thought she was capable of filling the vacancy. The practice took her to Europe five times, to South America and through half a dozen administrative careers.

Mrs. Kidd counsels the highest possible education for women, because "now-a-days an untrained office boy or reception clerk just doesn't get to be a vice-president."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a young married woman with a small family. My husband is a good man and we have always gotten along well together. The problem is this:

In the past two years he has asked me no less than a dozen times to take an oath that I will never remarry if he should die. I have refused to make such a promise because I'm not sure I could keep it. We are both in our late 20's and in good health. I see no reason for him to dwell on such morbid thoughts.

He is becoming more and more insistent and now we argue over this about once a week. Shall I promise him, with fingers crossed, just to put an end to the nagging? Please advise me. I am—EGG-ZAUSTED.

Dear Egg: Promises with crossed fingers are for five-year-olds. Don't let your husband's immaturity put you in a false position.

It is unreasonable and childish for your husband to try to exact a promise which would regulate your behavior in 40 years. You can't possibly know now what may be best for you when you are 63.

Dear Ann Landers: A woman I'm very fond of phoned last week and said she'd like to give a tea honoring my daughter who is being married this summer. She asked for a list of people I would like her to invite.

Since that day she has telephoned me five different times to tell me how expensive it is to mail invitations, how much the tea-cakes will cost, the price of the floral centerpiece, how much she will have to head off to prove that I knew what I was doing.

It's not a good feeling to be barely old enough to vote and realize you've messed up your life. I'm not blaming my mother but I can promise you, Ann, I'm going to be a lot stricter with my daughter than my mother was with me.

—FRISCO SAL.

Dear Sal: Thanks for your honest letter. It's too bad some kids have to jump off cliffs in order to learn first-hand what's at the bottom.

You don't blame your mother, and this is good, but I do. Parents have the responsibility of guiding and controlling their children. They must stick to their position and not cave in when the teens give out with that familiar old battle cry "But everybody's doing it!"

Dear Ann Landers: If "Too Young" only knew how wise her aunt is she'd thank her lucky stars instead of complaining because "the old battle-axe" won't give her permission to date at 13.

When I was 13 I thought I was mature for my age, too. My mother didn't want me to date so young but I was headstrong and she finally got tired of fighting and she let me have my way. I was dating at 13, 20 and divorced at 19.

I'm 21 now, with a three-year-old child to support. As I look back at my teen years, I could have talked anybody's

Many of us who have electric coffee pots have found that after a time an unpleasant taste often develops. One of the best known manufacturers of electric percolators advises that the odd taste is probably caused by a film of oil formed on the inside of the pot. This is the natural oil from the coffee bean, is transparent, and as the homemaker can't see it, it usually remains long enough to turn rancid and so spoils every brew of coffee. They recommend that as soon as possible after each use the percolator be washed thoroughly with a mild detergent, rinsed well and left unsealed to dry and air. A regular cleaning with powdered sink cleanser or one of the special dishwasher detergents will remove the oil film. Clean the stem with a bottle brush dipped in the cleanser, then boil up a brew of water and cleanser, being careful not to let the mixture bubble over.

Edinburgh gave a Dinner Party this evening for Her Imperial Highness Princess Chichibu.

The following had the honour of being invited:—
His Excellency the Japanese
Ambassador and Mrs. Ohno,
Mrs. Kazuko Aso (Lady in Waiting), Mr. Shigekuni Kikkawa (Vice-Grand Master of Ceremonies), Mr. and Mrs.
Ichiro Matsudaira, the Minister of State for Foreign Affairs and the Countess of Dundee, the Earl and Countess of Selkirk, the Dowager Lady Loch,

Rubber Suit Protects Against Chill Waters

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gill, 362 King
George Terrace, announce the engagement of their elder daughter,
Barbara Patricia, to Mr. George
Draskoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferenc Draskoy of Szentes, Hungary. The wedding will take place in St. Andrew's Church, Vancouver, at 7 p.m. on Thursday, August 9, with the Rev.

R. D. F. Kimmitt, MA, officiating.
Miss Gill received her bachelor of arts degree from the University of British Columbia in 1961 and Mr.
Draskoy graduated in forestry the
Jan de Haas and Mr. Draskoy by Campbell Studio, Vancouver.)

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—Princess
Margaret has taken up water skiing.

But the princess does it differently than Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

In photographs of the U.S. president's wife, published here last week, Mrs. Kennedy was shown skiing in a bathing suit.

In picture of the Queen's sister—splashed on the front
Daily Express today—Margaret was shown skiing in a skin-tight rubber suit.

The difference between Britain's chilly summer weather and the torrid temperatures in the United States probably accounts for the difference in garb.

With the temperature no higher than the low 70s most of the time, Margaret wore a froggy's rubber suit to protect her legs.

Margaret also donned a flowered French bathing cap.
The wife of the president apparently prefers a plain, head-hugging cap.

Bride Carries Lilies and Roses

Baskets of blue, white and yellow gladioli decorated St.
John's Anglican Church for a ceremony that united Barbara Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Cooper and Mr.
Douglas Robert Jones, son of Mrs. Annie Jones, Victoria and
Mr. R. Jones, Grand Centre, Alta.

Rev Canon G. Biddle officiated at the evening marriage.
The bride chose a floor-length white silk gown fashioned with belled skirt, three-quarter length sleeves and flowing train. Her silk finger tip veil was held by a pearl crown. Orange enchantment lilies and roses were in her bouquet.

Matron of honor, Mrs. G.
Casillo and bridesmatron, Mrs.
J. Scott, chose cobalt blue dresses with bell skirts and blue and white accessories and flowers. Jenny Madden, bridesmaid, wore a similarly styled dress of yellow and her accessories were yellow and bronze. Vernie Evans and Shawn Stewart, flower girls, were dressed in yellow frocks with toning flowers.

Bill Lord was best man and Jerry Lavender, Ken Dawson and John Carr ushered guests.
The wedding reception was held at the Golden Slipper. A three-tiered wedding cake topped with yellow roses was cut by the bride and groom. Mr.

P. Littlewood, proposed the toast.

Leaving on a honeymoon to Seattle the bride changed to a navy blue suit with cream and navy accessories. Her corsage was of cream colored orchids.
The newlyweds will make their home at 1150 Yates Street.

Driver Injured

Car, Trailer Hit Head-On

A freak accident between a car and a boat trailer on Trans-Canada Highway at Millstream yesterday afternoon sent a 50-year-old Victoria man to St. Joseph's Hospital with serious head injuries.

Clarence W. Lee, 619 Flagg, is reported in fair condition by hospital authorities.

The roof of his car was almost torn from the chassis in the bizarre crash which occurred at 2:30 p.m.

HEAD-ON CRASH

RCMP at Colwood said the Lee car collided head-on with a boat trailer which had become unhitched from a car driven by Hazel Campsall, 800 Reed Street.

Mr. Lee was northbound on the highway and the Campsall car was approaching in the opposite direction when the trailer hitch parted.

The trailer, carrying a 12-foot boat, swung across the centre line and into the path of the oncoming Lee car.

Witnesses said the trailer reared into the air on impact then smashed down onto the roof of the car.

The Lee car also received heavy damage to the left front.

A nine-year-old boy who is believed to have climbed on the back of a delivery truck for a free ride is in Royal Jubilee Hospital with head injuries after falling to the pavement on Finlayson Street last night.

Phillip Cunningham, 1335 Finlayson, was in good condition last night.

Answering a complaint that free passage to Inner Harbor was blocked, police found a 100-foot yacht tied up on two barrel buoys apparently obstructing the channel.

After a quick check of the city bylaws they found there was nothing covering this problem and notified the harbor master.

Action is promised for this morning.

A thief who crawled through a window at 310 Beckley yesterday made off with unusual loot. Police found several chocolate cookies were missing.

Two thieves who tried to plunder the coin box of a cigarette machine at Athletic Park early yesterday had plenty of light in which to work.

Teen-age nightwatchman Douglas Green told police the noise made by the thieves woke him as he slept in the ball park's bleachers.

He switched on all the lights and the noisy pair fled.

Sanchez firemen were nearly two hours beating down a fire that blackened an acre of brush and grass at Maplewood and Oak Mount last night.

It's Big Day Coming

Duncan's Ben Old Faithful

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Only two years younger than the city, the "Big Ben of Duncan" rang out its first bell at midnight of New Year's Eve, 1914, and ever since its clockwork, built in London, England, recorded faithfully the innumerable hours of 48 years.

At its christening ceremony, remembered by a few old-timers of North Cowichan municipality, the City of Duncan and the federal government were present including Reeve John Evans, Mayor O. T. Smythe, postmaster David Ford, Indian agent William Robertson and the caretaker of the building, John Wilmont.

The 50-foot tower of the old post office at the corner of Craig and Kenneth Streets always has been a landmark but at one time the hourly bell could be heard for several miles in the valley.

The clock—at first tended by jeweller Arthur Whittaker and now wound once a week by John Dodsworth—has counted many happy and sad hours.

Although the brick building with the tower and the clock was not there when Duncan celebrated its first birthday, the bell will strike the city's 50th when the birthday parade winds its way through the streets in September.

A few years ago, when the local post office moved into modern quarters, the old building became the headquarters for the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Brazil Films On Tonight

Two sharply contrasting films made an appearance at Oak Bay Junior High School last night and will be repeated tonight at 8 p.m.

Anthropologist and cameraman Eric Cross commented on the first film which depicted the life of Brazil's primitive Caraja Indians.

Fashions of Century For Centennial Ball

Tonight's centennial ball at the Gordon Head auditorium of Victoria University will be a parade of fashions of the past century rather than just another dance, officials hope.

If things go right the $15-a-couple affair ought to be half present-day and half from the back of grandma's clothes closet.

Frank Grieve, treasurer, said yesterday there had been indications the merrymakers will enter into the spirit of the thing.

The 500-person limit set on the dance is expected to be sold out. The dress, whether in 1863 or 1963 style, is formal.

Centennial ball officials have promised a contribution to the university's building fund will be made out of the profits of the dance.

Tickets for only 29 more couples were available last night.

Victoria Forester Transfers

A Victoria man has been transferred to Vancouver as assistant district forester in a major series of transfers and promotions of key personnel announced yesterday by the B.C. Forest Service.

J. A. Reid, present second-in-command of the service's management division here, will replace L. B. Boulton who will become assistant district forester at Kamloops.

Mr. Reid, 42, has been with the service since 1947. He is a graduate of the University of New Brunswick and is married with three children.

In other moves, J. R. Johnston, present district forester at Prince Rupert, will assume the same position at Nelson. He will be replaced by N. A. McRae, former assistant district forester of the Kamloops district.

Tow Refloats Trapped Vessel

VANCOUVER (CP)—A fishing vessel from Astoria, Ore., was refloated after she ran aground on a rock in Barkley Sound, south of Tofino on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The 46-foot Dreamer, which was not damaged, slipped off the rock at high tide with a tow from a vessel waiting nearby.

Home Burns to Ground

Couple Dies in Blaze

NANAIMO—A retired real estate agent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hope, 78 and 80 respectively, died at 3 a.m. Thursday when their home at Lantzville burned to the ground.

The fire was reported to Alex Steele of the Lantzville fire department, who lives next door to the Hopes, by two boys living on the other side of the Hope house.

Mr. Steele called the rest of the crew and went to help.

Although the equipment arrived quickly, the fire had gone out of control, and the house was doomed.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs.

Hope were found in the living room. It is believed they had attempted to get out, but were unable either to find the door through the smoke, or unlatch the heavy door chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Hope came to Nanaimo from Quebec about 30 years ago and had operated various businesses before going into real estate, in which he continued until 1944. He was at one time owner of the Globe Hotel. The Hopes had no children.

WESTERN RED CEDAR SIDING

Nature has endowed the giant red cedar of British Columbia with every quality a homeowner could ask for in a versatile construction material with its "built-in" weather resistance, insulation value, working ease and, above all, inherent beauty.

Western Red Cedar is the traditional choice of architects everywhere, for every application. The attractive grain and warm colors of this fine wood blend beautifully with any home style, modern or traditional in any setting, urban or rural.

Rich Quebec at Last Producing Nickel

QUEBEC (CP)—Though Canada supplies 60 per cent of the world's nickel, Quebec has never contributed two cents' worth until this year.

Now, for the first time, the mineral-rich province has a nickel producer. Marbridge Mines Limited already has made some shipments from its deposit in LaMotte Township, 220 miles north of Ottawa.

AND COPPER
It expects to mine 400 tons of ore daily, then have it treated at the Canadian Malarie Gold Mines plant to produce a concentrate 12 per cent nickel and 6 per cent copper.

The Marbridge deposit is one of a half-dozen known in the province. It is located in the Chibougamau area, known for its rich copper deposits.

Geologists also have found nickel in Pontiac and Montmagny counties. In 1960, mining groups spent $405,000 looking for nickel in Quebec.

The Marbridge discovery was made in 1957 by prospectors Vasilie Melnick and John Manchulenko of Val d'Or, about 25 miles north of the LaMotte district in Abitibi County.

To help set up a nickel development, the Quebec government contributed to construction of a five-mile road and ran in hydro-electric lines.

Lifton to Live

Cabinet Spares
Killer of Two

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet Thursday commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence against Eric Lifton, 22, for the Feb. 9 murder of police detective Lawrence Short.

Lifton was scheduled to be hanged July 31. He now will begin serving a life term in the British Columbia penitentiary. He will become eligible for parole after 10 years.

MERCY PLEA

The jury which convicted Lifton of capital murder had made a unanimous recommendation for mercy. His appeal to the British Columbia Court of Appeal was dismissed June 18. He did not appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Thursday's commutation was the 49th since the Progressive Conservative government took office in June, 1957. In the same period there have been 12 executions.

The charge against Lifton followed a gun battle at the Bayshore Inn in Vancouver.

BEING QUESTIONED

Lifton was being questioned in his room about his use of a stolen air travel credit card of a detective Short, L. J. Kingston, assistant manager of the Inn; and Paul J. Egley, manager of the Vancouver office of Pan American Airways.

When the shooting was over, the detective and Mr. Kingston were dead. Lifton and Mr. Egley were wounded. Lifton was arrested later while leaving the hotel in a taxi.

Industrial Chiefs Meeting Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans for an "Industrial expansion conference" here Sept. 7, bringing together more than 200 top Canadian businessmen to discuss how to boost production and efficiency, were unveiled Thursday by Trade Minister Hees.

Informants said they hope it will result in machinery for continuing and close contact between government and industry and its problems.

Officials Isolate
Air Crash Survivors

HONOLULU (AP) — Thirteen survivors of Monday's Canadian Pacific Airlines crash here have virtually been barred from contact with the outside world.

Reporters learned late Wednesday that the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board has prohibited all press interviews until the board completes its interrogation of the group.

The survivors are in a local city hospital. All but two likely will be released by the weekend. They include five Canadians—four of them crew members—all from the Vancouver area.

The hospital has "blacked out" all incoming calls to their rooms with the exception of those calls from relatives or "officials."

Festival Averts Ruin

DAWSON CITY, Y.T. (CP)—Dawson City's flagging Gold Rush Festival is expected to be able to stave off financial disaster until the scheduled end of its run Aug. 25.

The festival got a big boost from the Yukon Territorial Council Tuesday when the council pledged support of the musical Foxy with up to $62,500.

Foxy, which had its world premiere July 2 in the restored Palace Grand Theatre of gold rush fame, has played to poor audiences.

This coupled with failure of a drive for $125,000 in donations to a publicity fund threatened the festival's future.

Without the Territorial Council grant Foxy would have ended its run prematurely and hopes of holding future festivals might have been dashed.

Despite the fact many business suits and neat city street opening day July 2 and July 21.

Financed
By Exchange

SEATTLE (AP)—A Canadian can get into the Seattle World's Fair free—if he works it right.

A Canadian exchanging his money at a bank loses 10 cents a dollar in exchange and bank charges. It costs him $2.00 on a $20 transaction.

If he takes his $20 bill to the world's fair, however, he can get a ticket at $2 plus $18 back in official Century 21 trade dollars.

The trade dollars are useable the same as cash any place on the fairgrounds and at scores of stores in the northwest.

NEW YORK (AP) — "One moment, please," said the telephone operator, "American Airlines flight 941 is calling." "Hello," came a female voice a few seconds later. "This is stewardess Hope Patterson. We're at 28,000 feet over Lakehurst, N.J., on a jet flight from New York to Cincinnati. Can you hear me?"

With those words, Miss Patterson officially inaugurated

American Airlines air-to-ground radiotelephone — or "skyphone" — service Wednesday with a call to the Associated Press office in New York.

American has only the one plane with a phone but plans to equip more. Trans-World Airlines expects to inaugurate a similar service Saturday.

Servants' Federation

Blast at 'Freeze' Seen Saturday

Tentative steps toward arbitration in wage issues will be high on the agenda of a conference of Civil Servants' Federation here Saturday.

Although not on the agenda, Finance Minister Fleming's recent announcement of a wage freeze for civil servants is expected to come under fire.

SHOULDN'T STOP

The first group (professional men) have already been given a raise through cyclical wage review recommendations and we don't see why it should stop there," said Gordon Campbell, president of the Victoria council of the federation.

At present the only system of bargaining is classified as "consultation" and means little more than talk, according to one civil service official.

BEEK BARGAINING RIGHT

Civil servants want the right to bargain directly with the government on wage issues and to refer any deadlocks to an impartial arbitration board.

Among the other issues to be discussed will be the present system of wage surveys by groups and resolutions to be brought forward at the federation's triennial convention to be held in Hamilton, Ont., in August.

Assault Trial Remanded One Week

A man charged with attacking a woman on a city street was remanded one week without plea when he appeared in city police court yesterday.

Go-Slow Plan Studied

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Canadian post office workers will consider adopting what amounts to a work slowdown to back pay demands when they meet in national conference Sept. 19-21 in Windsor, Ont., their spokesmen said Thursday.

Dan Cross, national president of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, said the western British Columbia section of the association has prepared a resolution calling for "work-to-rule" action if the government fails to meet salary demands.

X-15 'Crippled'

EDWARDS AIR BASE, Calif. (AP)—X-15 pilot Neil Armstrong, streaking a mile a second, crippled his rocket plane's electronic controls Thursday to see what would happen if the same failure occurred in a ship returning from space.

Engineers said the little research plane sped 3,954 miles an hour during the mission and climbed to 100,000 feet. Armstrong landed here safely.

Curtis Issues Call

Blanshard Extension Debate Is Proposed

A full-scale debate in city council on the proposed Blanshard Street extension was called for yesterday by Ald. Austin Curtis.

He is not opposed to extending Blanshard as an ordinary city street serving a developing area in the vicinity of the new $6,000,000 Mayfair shopping centre.

But Ald. Curtis is opposed to full-scale construction of an arterial highway costing an estimated $300,000 to $1,000,000.

Ald. Curtis, who favors development of Quadra as a second entrance to the city, added that the provincial government has made no official request that the city extend Blanshard as an arterial highway link.

BIG TARGET

Despite the old adage, lightning has struck the top of New York's Empire State Building as often as 12 times in 20 minutes.

Tension Mounting As Pageant Nears

Royal Athletic Park reverberated with an air of tense excitement last night.

Victoria's giant centennial pageant was in the throes of its last dress rehearsal. Opening night is Saturday at 9 p.m.

In a booth high atop the grandstand huddled close to an intercom, youthful director Dudley Remus quietly issued instructions to his stage crew.

"Throw the blue spot light over to the left. I want a little more life in that scene."

Next to Mr. Remus in the booth, eight narrators brightly echoed the history of Victoria's 100 years.

In front of him a spectacular show unfurled on a giant stage. Gaily dressed square dancers do-se-doe. Beautiful, if somewhat forward, young ladies arrived aboard the bride ship Tynemouth. A church congregation sang the Lord's Prayer in tribute to Victoria's religious pioneers.

"I'm looking forward to a good show," said Mr. Remus. "We're seeing the equivalent of a good opening night performance."

Divers Recover

Body of Boy

POWELL RIVER (CP)—Skin divers have recovered the body of a 13-year-old boy who had been swept over a 70-foot waterfall. The body of Pat Zetzsche was found after divers searched for several hours in a deep pool at the foot of Chatterbox Falls at the head of Princess Louisa Inlet, about 74 miles north of Vancouver.

"I don't believe in this bad-dress-rehearsal-means-a-good-opening-night nonsense. A bad dress rehearsal scares the life out of me."

The director paid tribute to his "very dedicated and enthusiastic" cast. "They certainly deserve their night off tomorrow," he said.

Praise for the show also came from visiting TV actor Burt Reynolds who played a leading role in the Riverboat series.

He said he enjoyed the show and was particularly impressed with beautiful Miss Victoria, Synnove Pettersen, who is crowned during the show with Miss Centennial, Carol Ann Howay.

Truly - a most travelled rum!

Mr. Lemon Hart's rums travel for a reason. Made in the heart of the West Indies they are then sent to England because the most pure of England are traditionally the finest in the world for maturing rums. After quiet years in England they are perfectly blended, bottled and shipped to Canada and throughout the world.

Peru Hits U.S.

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Military President Ricardo Perez Godoy accused U.S. ambassador James Loebe Thursday of taking sides in Peru's presidential election last month. A U.S. spokesman in Washington termed the charge ridiculous. Loebe returned to Washington Thursday for consultations. "Unfortunately, he (Loebe) was not an impartial ambassador," Gen. Perez Godoy said. "He showed preference to one candidate. I don't know why he interfered, but he did."

Special Session in Week To Iron Out Care Act

REGINA (CP) — A special session of the Saskatchewan legislature is expected to incorporate in legislation the 29 points of the Saskatchewan medical care agreement likely to begin next week, Premier Woodrow Lloyd said Thursday.

Here's How Medicare Will Work!

By KEN CLARK

SASKATOON (CP) — Saskatchewan's man-in-the-street will face a variety of alternatives under the province's amended Medical Care Insurance Act.

Officials say how he gets his medical bills paid depends partly on what kind of coverage he wants and partly on the doctor he chooses to treat him.

DIRECTLY INSURED
First, the citizen will be insured directly by the Medical Care Insurance Commission, administrators of the act. Whether he chooses to seek benefits or not, the citizen will begin paying premiums in November.

These have been set at $12 per year for single persons and $24 for a family. Without premiums, cost of the plan this year is being met from tax sources.

PAYS NOTHING
In the case of a citizen insured under the act alone, he will pay nothing if he goes to a doctor who is working under the act. The doctor will send his bill to the commission for reimbursement.

But the patient may have difficulty in finding a doctor working under the act. Officials say most of the province's 625 practising physicians will work outside the act, although at least six co-operative clinics have been set up to work under it.

PAY DIRECTLY
If the man insured directly by the commission goes to a doctor working outside the act, then he must pay the doctor directly and send the bill to the commission for reimbursement.

Alternatively, the individual may decide to remain in a non-profit private group insurance plan or enrol in one.

About 80 per cent of Saskatchewan's population of 928,000 were enrolled in private plans as of July 1.

IN TWO PLANS
Most were in two doctor-sponsored plans, Medical Services Incorporated and Group Medical Services.

Nearly all doctors in the province have service contracts with one or both of these plans.

If a citizen covered by MSI goes to an MSI doctor under the amended plan he will pay nothing for medical treatment. The doctor will send the patient's bill to MSI for reimbursement and MSI will collect from the government.

WHAT THEN?
But what if an individual covered by a private agency goes to a doctor who does not have a service contract with the same agency?

In this case the patient gets a bill from the doctor, pays the doctor and then sends his bill to his agency for reimbursement.

If a person decides to join an approved private plan such as MSI then he will have to pay an administrative fee for the privilege, the amount yet to time the private plans will offer supplemental coverage for an additional premium.

Regardless of what path anyone chooses to follow, all will pay annual premiums to the government for coverage.

A spokesman for GMS said the organization will as soon as possible offer its subscribers a new contract and service designed to meet the needs of patients whose doctors are practising outside the Medical Care Act.

Dr. J. B. Mesbur, president of the Regina and District Medical Society, said Thursday that no doctors in Regina would work under the government plan except seven who are working for a co-operative clinic here.

Negro Violence Will Net Action

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Negro leaders planned their next integration moves behind closed doors Thursday in the face of a new warning from Governor Ernest Vandiver that further violence would bring state action.

An air of expectancy hung over this south Georgia city as Negroes ended at noon a self-imposed day of penance because of rock-throwing by some members of their race after a Tuesday night march.

New marching protests against segregation had been planned but it appeared uncertain when or whether they would materialize.

Big Cruisers Pour Into Cadboro Bay

Facilities at picturesque Royal Victoria Yacht Club were starting to bulge yesterday with early arrivals of a flotilla of more than 100 power cruisers already entered in the world's largest predicted log cruiser

U.S. Plans To Attack Says Castro

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro told a notary rally of Cubans Thursday the United States is preparing direct armed aggression against their homeland. He charged the U.S. Navy was holding the Guantanamo naval base "against our will" and that it has become "a lodging for drunken inhabitants and counter-revolutionaries."

"The imperialists are aiming to their teeth," Castro declared.

FEWER CAVITIES
The Brantford teen-agers, as well as teen-agers in Stratford, Ont., where the water contains natural fluorides, have fewer tooth cavities than those in Sarnia or other Canadian communities where the water supply is not fluoridated.

The statements are contained in a report of tests of 14- and 15-year-olds in the three Ontario cities. The group includes children in Brantford who have been consuming fluoridated water throughout their lifetime.

FLUORIDES ADDED
Fluorides were added to the Brantford water in 1955 while Stratford water has contained natural fluorides from underground deposits for the last 45 years. There are no fluorides in the Sarnia water.

In Sarnia, only one 14- to 15-year-old in 100 has no cavities. In Brantford and Stratford, 16 of 100 have no cavities and those who do have cavities, have small ones.

Blue Law Vote Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Residents here will vote Dec. 12 on the Sunday entertainment issue.

Council Thursday approved a plebiscite on the question. Last year a plebiscite proposal was rejected.

The approved motion calls for a plebiscite on movies, concerts, theatrical shows and similar events.

Tories Rally To Mac

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan won a vote of confidence in the House of Commons Thursday night as his Conservative party rallied behind him to defeat a Labor opposition censure motion 351 to 253.

The vote followed a stormy debate and speech by Macmillan in answer to Labor's call for the government to resign and hold immediate elections.

In his speech, Macmillan vowed to curb "undue" profits if this was necessary to support the government's wage restraint policy.

ATTRACT SUPPORT
The unexpected pledge was seen as a move to attract public support for the Conservative government's unpopular "pay pause" policy.

Macmillan said the government would restrain any undue growth in profits "by fiscal or any other appropriate means" if it deemed that the profits were being made at the expense of workers.

As a counter-measure — but with none of the legal power — Macmillan said he would appoint an advisory permanent national incomes commission to express views on wage and salary claims of special importance.

PRACTICAL POWER
Though the commission would only have advisory power, Macmillan said, he expected that putting its opinions "before the bar of public opinion" would mean that it would have practical power as well.

He also pledged that the government would introduce legislation to set a statutory minimum period of notice before an employer can dismiss an employee.

Macmillan said the government is reviewing legislation on monopolies and restrictive practices in the light of the last five years' experience.

NOT ABASHED
Macmillan told the House he was "not at all abashed" by Labor charges that his government is ineffectual and incompetent and should resign.

Opposition leader Hugh Gaitskell, opening the debate, concentrated most of his attack on Macmillan's firing of one-third of his cabinet in the great "Friday the 13th purge" of two weeks ago.

"This was the act of a desperate man in a desperate situation," he said.

Macmillan praised former chancellor of the exchequer Selwyn Lloyd, with whom the "pay pause" policy is most closely associated, as a man of courage and purpose.

But the pay pause had been won, he continued. "We have achieved a sound basis for growth and we must conserve that and move to a new phase. I have decided, for this new phase, there must be some new commanders."

Bloody Fight Feared

CP from AP-Reuters

ALGIERS — Troops of Algeria's insurgent deputy premier, Ahmed Ben Bella, were reported preparing Thursday night to push into this fortified capital city and clear the way for a new government. Bloody fighting could result.

Troops backing the wobbly central government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda manned all approaches to the city Thursday. Thousands more were holed up in the Kabylie mountains east of this seaport. Their leaders called for widespread resistance to Ben Bella.

CALM FRONT
Ben Khedda left almost alone in the rambling government building — presented a calm front. He and his armaments minister, Abdelhadi Bouasouf, expressed confidence that "everything will be arranged."

FRENCH STAND BY
President de Gaulle's French government watched the situation closely. But government sources in Paris said the 400,000 men of the French armed forces still in Algeria would intervene only to protect any Frenchmen who were endangered.

Followers of disident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella appeared to be in firm control of western Algeria and part of the east. Mohammed Khider, a member of the seven-man political bureau Ben Bella has formed for overall control of the country, told reporters in Oran the bureau will assemble in Algiers. He said he himself will head to Algiers today.

Four of the seven bureau members, all firm supporters of Ben Bella, held talks here Thursday.

Algeria Knows No Peace

By DOUG MARSHALL,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chaos has come again to Algeria and observers fear the newly-independent nation is dangerously close to civil war.

The forces of disident deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella now control three-quarters of the country while soldiers loyal to the provisional government of Ben Youssef Ben Khedda prepare to defend Algiers, the capital.

In the Kabylie Mountains east of Algiers Deputy Premier Belkacem Krim has denounced Ben Bella's followers as "fascists and irresponsibles" and called for a massive rally in support of the provisional government.

Meanwhile in Algeria terrified European nationals are flocking to the airport and the harbor. Kidnappings and murders have been mounting continuously.

Much now hinges on whether Ben Bella can consolidate his victories throughout the country. If he wins over all control Algeria is likely to become a rigid one-party state within the influence of Nasser's Egypt.

A third factor is the 400,000-man French army still on Algerian soil.

ending co-operation with France.

At the moment, despite inflammatory anti-French sentiment among his followers, he has promised to honor the agreement and severely punish Muslim kidnappers of Europeans and Jews.

Several observers in London point to the parallel between the present Algerian situation and the chaos that reigned in The Congo a week after the Belgians pulled out.

Like The Congo, the Algerian dispute seems less a conflict of principle and more a struggle for power between rival forces who distrust each other's intentions.

The wounds of 7½ years of ruthless terrorism have hardly healed in Algeria. Civil war would destroy all that President de Gaulle has sought to gain and the injuries this time could prove fatal.

Ignore Report On Firemen Curtis Storms

Ald. Austin Curtis said last night he will recommend the city pay "no attention whatever" to a warning that Victoria needs more firemen and equipment.

He said the report prepared by the Canadian Underwriters' Association—containing more than 30 recommendations that could cost the city more than $250,000 according to conservative unofficial estimates—was "entirely unofficial."

NOT INVITED

"I would like to know who these people think they are; after all, they came in here completely uninvited," the chairman of the fire wardens committee told the Colonist.

Ald. Curtis added: "I will recommend to the (fire wardens) committee that we pay no attention whatever to the report or its recommendations."

ALL FOR NOW

"That's all I have to say for the present, but I wish to say it in the strongest possible terms."

He said the $250,000 unofficial estimate for new equipment and facilities was conservative and added the total figure could reach well over $1,000,000 if new waterworks proposals were included.

'WE DON'T KNOW'

"It could go to $2,000,000 or even $3,000,000 in total, we don't know," said Ald. Curtis.

There is some concern at City Hall, however, that if Victoria fails to implement the underwriters' recommendations fire insurance rates will sharply increase. This has happened in similar instances elsewhere in Canada.

WELL TRAINED

The report said Victoria's firemen are well trained and led but there just aren't enough of them.

Among major recommendations were:

- A substantial increase in the number of firemen;
- Construction of a new fire hall at Cook and Hillside, bringing the number to four;
- Re-location of the Burnside firehall to John and Tillamook;
- Replace old fire trucks and add to the fleet;
- Substitute a 3,000-gallon-per-minute fireboat for present watercraft coverage by annual contracting of fire tug assistance.

- Increase the number of street alarm boxes;
- Replace the fire department's outdated radio system;
- Continue and expand programs of improving water main and fire hydrant services.

WELL EQUIPPED

Fire department fairly well equipped, but equipment old and seriously lacking in manpower.

The total number of additional firemen was not specified. Replacement of all apparatus over 15 years old was recommended.

Welcome to Victoria!

First of many centennial kisses to be proffered by Victoria pageant Queen Carol Ann Howay went to TV actor Bert Reynolds as he stepped off plane at Patricia Bay Airport yesterday to assist with week of festivities which starts tomorrow with premiere of 1,000-member cast in a 90-minute spectacle covering the city's first 100 years.—(Colonist photo.)

Highland Pageant Will Be Colorful

Saturday will be a big day, with the heather as more than 350 kiltsed competitors take part in the centennial highland games at Macdonald Park.

HURDLE RACING

For the first time the popular junior olympics inaugurated last year, will include hurdle racing. Starting time has been advanced from 1 p.m. to 11 a.m.

Canadian Scottish and Seattle Pipe Bands will present feature performances of piping and drumming. A special dance number by Mrs. Adeline Duncan's dancers will salute Victoria's centenary.

BIG MARCH-PART

A giant march-past will embrace the Canadian Scottish, Seaforth Cadets, Vancouver Ladies' Pipe Band, Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack, Orange Pipe Band, Navy

Pipe Band, Seattle Senior and Junior Pipe Bands and Portland Clan McCloy.

The annual Victoria highland games have a 25-year history. First recorded highland events were held here 70 years ago but Scotsmen are sure the first athletic events organized in old Fort Victoria were Caledonian.

Petition Circulates

Sweepstake Drive Well Under Way

Operation Sweepstake is making rapid progress in Greater Victoria as 45 auto-graph hunters continue to collect signatures for a petition to legalize sweepstakes in Canada.

"In our first week of operation we have collected well over 500 signatures," said H. P. Wilson, 643 Harbinger, the organization's man-in-Victoria.

"Petition forms for 4,000 signatures are now in the hands of persons who have expressed interest in them," he said. "We are now trying to interest people up-island in our movement."

Plans are to send petitions to Ottawa requesting the federal government to amend the criminal code to legalize sweepstakes in Canada for the support of hospitals.

It is hoped the petition will be brought up for debate at the next session of parliament.

Dancing competitions start at 9 a.m. at Macdonald Park with official opening by Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean slated for 2 p.m. Piping gets underway at 9:30 a.m.

Small preview of Saturday's events will be given on the front lawn of the Empress Hotel tonight at 8 p.m.

'How Can They Lose?'

Barricaded Motel Offers Road as Gift

By JACK FREY

A harassed View Royal motel owner who spent $25,000 on a paved road linking Highways 1 and 1A yesterday offered to give it to the provincial government for nothing.

"They can have it free if they will just agree to maintain it and keep it open," the embattled innkeeper told the Colonist.

He said government acceptance would benefit B.C. by increasing the tax take from a depressed motel area and give the general public a new means of access to View Royal.

HOW TO LOSE?

"How can they lose?" asked Herbert Plasterer, owner of the Canadian Crest, 340 Island Highway.

His interest is to revitalize the View Royal tourist industry which has been waning ever since the area was bypassed by construction of the new Trans-Canada Highway.

But a highways official indicated last night the government might look the gift horse in the mouth.

NOT LIKELY

Deputy highways minister H. T. Maird said it was "unlikely" the government would consider taking over the new road and maintaining it as a link between Highways 1 and 1A.

He declined to comment on whether he thought there was any chance of working out another way to keep the road open.

Dispute over the new road running into the Trans-Canada Highway about five miles from View Royal came into the open Wednesday when the highways department blockaded it with five posts.

HAS NO PERMIT

Highways officials said Mr. Plasterer has no permit for either the access road or a number of signs which were posted on his property beside the highway.

But the motel man said he had a verbal okay from former district engineer A. F. Provencio who died May 24 in an airplane crash.

He also said a commercial paving firm made a written application to the department before connecting the asphalt road to the Trans-Canada.

VERBAL APPROVAL

And he claimed district engineer J. P. Hague recently gave him verbal authorization to pave 50 feet of the highway shoulder at the entrance to the disputed access road.

Mr. Plasterer said he is tempted to put up another sign until his dispute is resolved — "Sorry for the inconvenience."

He bought his motel beside the Island Highway three years ago but found the only times the "no vacancy" sign went up was when city motels were overflowing.

MORE CUSTOMERS

DUNCAN'S BIG BEN
... tolling landmark

Duncan's Ben Old Faithful

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Only two years younger than the city, the "Big Ben of Duncan" rang out its first bell at midnight of New Year's Eve, 1914, and ever since its clockwork, built in London, England, recorded faithfully the innumerable hours of 48 years.

At its christening ceremony, remembered by a few old-timers of North Cowichan municipality, the City of Duncan and the federal government were present including Reeve John Evans, Mayor O. T. Smythe, postmaster David Ford, Indian agent William Robertson and the caretaker of the building, John Wilmont.

The 50 foot tower of the old post office at the corner of Craig and Kenneth Streets, always has been a landmark but at one time the hourly bell could be heard for several miles in the valley.

The clock—at first tended by jeweller Arthur Whittaker and now wound once a week by John Dodsworth — has counted many happy and sad hours.

Although the brick building with the tower and the clock was not there when Duncan celebrated its first birthday, the bell will strike the city's 50th when the birthday parade winds its way through the streets in September.

A few years ago, when the local post office moved into modern quarters, the old building became the headquarters for the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Fire Danger Emphasized

CAMPBELL RIVER — There are no forest fires burning in this area but tourists have been asked to be extremely careful with their camp fires.

A forty-acre forest fire is reported under control at the mouth of Toba Inlet, and another fire at Plummer Harbor is said to be burning out of the area.

Old Control Tower Destroyed by Fire

TOFINO—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed an old unused control tower at the Tofino airport Tuesday. The fire was confined to the tower.

It'll Be Great Day For the Evanses

DUNCAN — Last preparations are being made by a specially appointed Evans family committee to organize one of the most unusual events the Cowichan Valley has seen in the past 100 years.

More than 400 descendants of three Evans brothers who came here in the early 1860s will gather this Sunday at the Exhibition Grounds to celebrate their centenary. They will come from many Vancouver Island centres, the B.C. mainland, the Prairies and from as far as Alaska.

The oldest family members: Mrs. Mary Flett, Arthur Evans, Mrs. M. L. Savage, Miss Ruby Evans, Mrs. Alice Clements, Mrs. H. V. Kier, Francis Evans, Albert Evans, John Evans, George Evans, Mrs. Robina Truedale and Mrs. M. W. Bishop.

Member of the organizing committee, George Evans said the picnic will bring together many relatives who never saw each other before.

Stories of prairie schooners, bringing some of the ancestors across the plains to the West Coast, and tales of early road building and gold digging in California fields will mingle with the adventures of the early pioneers in the Cowichan Valley, and a special tribute will be paid to the memory of the three original Evanses—James, David and John D.

Victim Fair After Crash

ALBERNI—A North Vancouver man is in fair condition following an accident in this district late Wednesday night.

Hospital authorities said William Noga, 29, of 1810 Tobruk Street, North Vancouver, is being treated for compound fractures of both legs and multiple abrasions to head and body.

Clubs Hold Field Day

PARKSVILLE — Parksville Quilicum 4-H Club recently was host to some 170 members of upper-island 4-H clubs at a field day.

SELF-DESIGNED

Sharon Runolfsson of Parksville-Quilicum club won with a two-piece outfit made and designed by herself.

The senior championship of the field day was won by Jenni Van Dyke of Comox Valley Club. Second and third places went to Randi Christiansen and Carol Morris, both of Parksville-Quilicum club.

Other winners: Jenny Van Dyke, market lamb judging; Carol Morris, dairy class judging; Mary Morris, beef class; Sym Greenveid, poultry class judging.

Identification class was won

Vandals Hit Windshields

COURTENAY (CP) — More than $1,000 damage has been done to auto windshields in the Comox Valley by vandals.

Garages Set Hours

NANAIMO — Twenty-seven service station operators and garages voted Thursday at city hall on the bylaw which will set 10 p.m. as the closing hour for all service stations and garages in the city except four.

If, as expected, the bylaw passes, city council will call for applications for the four 24-hour permits.

Lifeless Union Bay Waits For 'Go' on Bright Future

UNION BAY—The 200 inhabitants of this lifeless old Vancouver Island mining town wait with bated breath today for word that a multi-million-dollar pulp mill complex will drive away the haunting spectre of the ghost town.

And from all indications Canadian Collieries Ltd. will take the step to erase the symptoms of rigor mortis which set in here with the rapid obsolescence of "black gold."

Indications that the company will breathe new life into the old town in an announcement expected later today can be seen at every hand.

But that only intensifies the tension of a population that has been waiting . . . waiting . . . waiting for an industry to replace the dwindling coal economy.

The historic docks which were used in the 1880s to serve the thriving coal industry and which have become a Union Bay landmark to thousands of Island Highway travellers are in the process of being dismantled.

Crews were at work yesterday salvaging the 70 foot piles (worth more than $2 a foot) which will be shipped to build a new wharf for the Canadian Collieries Squamish mill.

Only part of the wharf will be demolished now, because Comox Mining, the syndicate which took over the Cumberland Tumble coal mine when it was abandoned by Canadian

An industry for the disintegrating Union Bay community has been uppermost in the minds of legislators for years, and all industrial planning reports recommend Union Bay as a logical site.

A steel mill has often been mooted for the area, and at one time seemed close to reality.

Survey crews have been at work in the area periodically in the past few years and actual wharf removal work and moving of the community hall has been under way since late June.

Collieries is still using it to load scows.

The company has been ordered to move and is in the process of building a new jetty at Buckley Bay, just a few miles to the south.

Rumors new pulp mill will be established in Union Bay are strengthened by the fact Canadian Collieries recently negotiated to take back the ball ground and community hall grounds the Union Bay Community Club held on a 99-year lease.

Not only did the collieries exchange the property, but also paid for removal of the huge community hall to a new site across the road.

Canadian Collieries is said to be the third largest timber holder in B.C. and much of it is on Vancouver Island. The company owns most of the Union Bay area and the homes.

Since large-scale coal mining was abandoned there has been no major industry to support Union Bay.

Now residents hope a pulp mill will provide full employment and more. The 70 men left unemployed when Crown Zellerbach closed down its historic Fanny Bay steam mill last winter would also find employment here.

Ghost town or boom town? Union Bay residents expect to learn today.

Alberni Challenges All Island Riders

ALBERNI—Alberni Valley Riders' Club has invited all Island riding clubs to compete in the second annual Vancouver Island inter-club challenge and open gymkhana scheduled at the fall fair grounds in Port Alberni Aug. 12.

The show, featuring 12 events, is open to individuals and club teams, but only points won by six horses and riders—entered as a team—will count toward the Rose Bowl perpetual trophy, donated in 1961 by the Colonist.

Entry forms may be obtained from R. Shanks and Sons, Victoria; R. Betty, Duncan; H. Holmes, Nanaimo; Bill MacLeod or Mrs. Luttrell, Courtenay, and John Busky, Errington.

Couple Dies in Blaze

NANAIMO—A retired real estate agent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hope, 78 and 80 respectively, died at 3 a.m. Thursday when their home at Lantzville burned to the ground.

The fire was reported to Alex Steele of the Lantzville fire department, who lives next door to the Hopes, by two boys living on the other side of the Hope house.

Mr. Steele called the rest of the crew and went to help.

Although the equipment arrived quickly, the fire had gone out of control, and the house was doomed.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Hope were found in the living room. It is believed they had attempted to get out, but were unable either to find the door through the smoke, or unfasten the heavy door chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Hope came to Nanaimo from Quebec about 30 years ago and had operated various businesses before going into real estate, in which he continued until 1944. He was at one time owner of the Globe Hotel. The Hopes had no children.

Around the Island

Hit-Run Driver 'Sorry'

NANAIMO—An unidentified woman driver knocked a 14-year-old Nanaimo girl off her bicycle Thursday near the curling rink, then drove off after saying she was sorry, police said.

Stephanie Whyte, 14, daughter of regional librarian Fred Whyte, Eberts Street, was not seriously hurt.

PORT ALBERNI—A man who pleaded guilty last week to a charge of vagrancy was sentenced Tuesday to one day in jail, already spent.

David Cecil Dumas was fined $10 costs after he pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place.

NANAIMO—The Jim Jenkins Hospital fund continues to grow and now amounts to $400.00.

Lantzville Roman Catholic parishioners have contributed $27, and two anonymous donations of $50 and $5 have come in.

NANAIMO—The exclusive Lynburn Heights section of outlying Nanaimo is experiencing a lot of trouble in keeping its lawns watered.

Thefts of garden hose and sprinklers about a week ago have been repeated during the last two nights.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Two Sayward district logging firms were charged by RCMP Thursday for operating over-height and over-weight trucks and using purple gas on a public highway.

Magistrate P. E. Lewis fined Longland Brothers $150 on all three counts, while Blundell was fined $50 for overloading.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Village commissioners are discussing action to be taken against eight youths, 16 to 17 years old, who recently damaged a swimming pool fence with a hacksaw, broke marking machinery at Lane Recreation Park and smashed windows in the changing room.

Fight Case Dismissed

NANAIMO—Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts Thursday dismissed a charge of causing a disturbance against Lawrence McFadden of Nanaimo.

The charge was the result of a fight in the parking lot of the Patricia Hotel. Several participants have already been sentenced.

McFadden made a statement June 4, he had been assaulted by two Indians while he was walking toward his car with two cases of beer.

When they attacked him with a knife, McFadden, a fisherman, drew his own knife to defend himself, he said.

Tyee Fair Game As Season Starts

PORT ALBERNI—Tyee will be fair game when the Alberni Valley Tyee Club opens its 1962 season Sunday, and once again residents and tourists will try for the biggest fish of the year.

The season, which ends at noon Oct. 6, will again feature special derbies and competitions, ending with the senior main derby Sunday, Oct. 7.

One hundred members who have caught the largest fish during the qualifying weeks will be eligible to participate in the final derby for prizes and trophies.

All fish must be weighed in by 9 p.m. on the day they are caught. Port Boathouse is the official weighing station.

A trophy will be given for the first fish of the season, and weekly competitions will be held for club trophies. Club members only will be eligible for the weekly awards.

One of the major events of the season is the three-day open derby sponsored by the club. It will be held this year Sept. 1, 2 and 3, with $400 being offered in prize money.

It will be the finale for Tyee Week, when there will be fishing and special events for all members of the family.

Junior Tyee Club season opens on the same day but ends Sept. 9, followed the next day by the junior main derby when youngsters between eight and 16 will compete for the Buffalo Lodge trophy.

Alberni Challenges All Island Riders

ALBERNI—Alberni Valley riders—entered as a team—will mount toward the Ross Bowl perpetual trophy, donated in 1961 by the Colonist.

Entry forms may be obtained from R. Shanks and Sons, Victoria; R. Betty, Duncan; H. Holmes, Nanaimo; Bill MacLeod or Mrs. Luttrell, Courtenay, and John Busby, Errington.

The show, featuring 12 events, is open to individuals and club teams, but only points won by six horses and

Couple Dies in Blaze

NANAIMO—A retired real estate agent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hope, 78 and 80 respectively, died at 3 a.m. Thursday when their home at Lantzville burned to the ground.

The fire was reported to Alex Steele of the Lantzville fire department, who lives next door to the Hopes, by two boys living on the other side of the Hope house.

Mr. Steele called the rest of the crew and went to help. Although the equipment arrived quickly, the fire had gone out of control, and the house was doomed.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Hope were found in the living room. It is believed they had been unable to get out, but were unable either to find the door through the smoke, or unfasten the heavy door chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Hope came to Nanaimo from Quebec about 30 years ago and had operated various businesses before going into real estate, in which he continued until 1944. He was at one time owner of the Globe Hotel. The Hopes had no children.

Around the Island

Hit-Run Driver 'Sorry'

NANAIMO—An unidentified woman driver knocked a 14-year-old Nanaimo girl off her bicycle Thursday near the curling rink, then drove off after saying she was sorry, police said.

Stephanie Whyte, 14, daughter of regional librarian Fred Whyte, Eberts Street, was not seriously hurt.

PORT ALBERNI—A man who pleaded guilty last week to a charge of vagrancy was sentenced Tuesday to one day in jail, already spent.

Magistrate W. E. Macleod also ordered Arthur Strom be placed on the interdiction list.

David Cecil Dumas was fined $10 costs after he pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place.

NANAIMO—The Jim Jenkins Hospital fund continues to grow and now amounts to $400.80. Lantzville Roman Catholic parishioners have contributed $27, and two anonymous donations of $50 and $5 have come in.

NANAIMO—The exclusive Lynburn Heights section of outlying Nanaimo is experiencing a lot of trouble in keeping its lawns watered. Thefts of garden hose and sprinklers about a week ago have been repeated during the last two nights.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Two Seward district logging firms were charged by RCMP Thursday for operating over-height and over-weight trucks and using purple gas on a public highway.

Magistrate P. E. Lewis fined Longland Brothers $150 on all three counts, while Blundell was fined $50 for overloading.

Typical Fair Game As Season Starts

PORT ALBERNI—Tye will be fair game when the Alberni Valley Tye Club opens its 1962 season Sunday, and once again residents and tourists will try for the biggest fish of the year.

The season, which ends at noon Oct. 6, will again feature special derbies and competitions, ending with the senior main derby Sunday, Oct. 7.

One hundred members who have caught the largest fish during the qualifying weeks will be eligible to participate in the final derby for prizes and trophies.

All fish must be weighed in by 9 p.m. on the day they are caught. Fort Boathouse is the official weighing station.

A trophy will be given for the first fish of the season, and weekly competitions will be held for club trophies. Club members only will be eligible for the weekly awards.

One of the major events of the season is the three-day open derby sponsored by the club. It will be held this year Sept. 1, 2 and 3, with $400 being offered in prize money.

It will be the finale for Tye Week, when there will be fishing and special events for all members of the family.

Junior Tye Club season opens on the same day but ends Sept. 9, followed the next day by the junior main derby when youngsters between eight and 16 will compete for the Buffalo Lodge trophy.

$5 Fine Ends Poster Case

NANAIMO—One colored poster, about 18 inches square, and eight smaller handbills absorbed the attention of Chehalis Magistrate R. C. Purdy, Dave Williams, a well known Duncan lawyer, seven witnesses and a battery of reporters for about four hours Thursday.

Colin Cameron, MP for Nanaimo, Cowichan and the Islands, was charged with "suffering and permitting" posters to be put within the boundaries of North Cowichan municipality without posting the necessary bond prescribed by bylaw.

The defence contended no posters had appeared before June 12, and out of a total of 1,700 posters ordered, only nine found their way into North Cowichan territory; that Colin Cameron, his campaign manager and workers had specifically instructed no posters be placed in the North Cowichan municipal area; that Mr. Cameron had not seen the posters up, and that the identity of the persons putting them up could not be established.

Mr. Cameron said he would not appeal.

NEW NOTHING

Mr. Cameron said he had known nothing about the matter until he received a long distance call from the Colonist and no communication of any kind from the office of the municipality had ever reached him.

He said no evidence had been produced to show he had "suffered and permitted" the posters to be put up.

He said the prosecution was "frivolous and vexatious."

Mr. Williams, presenting the case for the municipality, said Mr. Cameron must accept liability for any acts by his agents and disagreed with Mr. Cameron's interpretation of "suffer and permit."

Magistrate Purdy found Mr.

Damp Walk

CAMPBELL RIVER—Federation nearly received an involuntary shower when Island Coach Lines recently washed their buses on the street, village commission was told by a village employee.

Commission will advise Coach Lines this practice constitutes an infraction of a bylaw.

The bus line will move to a new location as soon as the new building is finished.

Servants' Federation

Blast at 'Freeze' Seen Saturday

Tentative steps toward arbitration in wage issues will be high on the agenda of a conference of Civil Servants' Federation here Saturday.

Although not on the agenda, Finance Minister Fleming's recent announcement of a wage freeze for civil servants is expected to come under fire.

SHOULDN'T STOP

"The first group (professional men) have already been given a raise through cyclical wage review recommendations and we don't see why it should stop there," said Gordon Campbell, president of the Victoria council of the federation.

Go-Slow Plan Studied

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Canadian post office workers will consider adopting what amounts to a work slowdown to back pay demands when they meet in national conference Sept. 19-21 in Windsor, Ont., their spokesman said Thursday.

Dan Cross, national president of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, said the western British Columbia section of the association has prepared a resolution calling for "work-to-rule" action if the government fails to meet salary demands.

of bargaining is classified as "consultation" and means little more than talk, according to one civil service official.

SEEK BARGAINING RIGHT

Civil servants want the right to bargain directly with the government on wage issues and to refer any deadlocks to an impartial arbitration board.

Among the other issues to be discussed will be the present system of wage surveys by groups and resolutions to be brought forward at the federation's triennial convention to be held in Hamilton, Ont., in August.

Assault Trial Remanded One Week

A man charged with attacking a woman on a city street was remanded one week without plea when he appeared in city police court yesterday.

William McPhee, 560 Prince Robert, charged with common assault, was remanded to Aug. 1. Bail was set at $100.

McPhee is alleged to have attacked Sharon Fournier, 21, in the 100 Block Pemberton. The woman told police the man who attacked her struck her several times in the stomach, knocking her to the ground.

X-15 'Crippled'

EDWARDS AIR BASE, Calif. (AP)—X-15 pilot Neil Armstrong, streaking a mile a second, crippled his rocket plane's electronic controls Thursday to see what would happen if the same failure occurred in a ship returning from space.

Engineers said the little research plane sped 3,854 miles an hour during the mission and climbed to 100,000 feet. Armstrong landed here safely.

MOBILE FEAST

Ethiopia exported more than 2,000 sheep to Saudi Arabia for food at the Moslem festival of Hajj in 1962.

Curtis Issues Call

Blanshard Extension Debate Is Proposed

A full-scale debate in city council on the proposed Blanshard Street extension was called for yesterday by Ald. Austin Curtis.

He is not opposed to extending Blanshard as an ordinary city street serving a developing area in the vicinity of the new $6,000,000 Mayfair shopping centre.

But Ald. Curtis is opposed to full-scale construction of an arterial highway costing an estimated $800,000 to $1,000,000.

Ald. Curtis, who favors development of Quadra as a second entrance to the city, added that the provincial government has made no official request that the city extend Blanshard as an arterial highway link.

BIG TARGET

Despite the old adage, lightning has struck the top of New York's Empire State Building as often as 12 times in 20 minutes.

51st State Down Under?

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND (CP)—The idea of union with the United States is being briskly debated in New Zealand.

Advocates of the plan see an application to become the 51st state in the American union as a counter to dangers from British membership in the European Common Market.

Suggestions of union with the United States are not new in New Zealand. They have been made at intervals almost since the country was settled last century. There were serious suggestions of leaving the Empire and joining the United States in the 1870s when British troops were withdrawn from New Zealand and the colony felt it was being abandoned and left defenceless.

But most such suggestions in the present century have been greeted with angry denunciations and ridicule. The difference now is that the proposal is being discussed on its merits instead of on a basis of emotion.

INTEREST LIVELY

Even now the idea is being advanced only as a remote possibility, but the numbers of people writing to the newspapers on the subject indicates a lively interest.

The argument of those who advocate the plan is that Britain is suiting her convenience and economic interests in approaching the Common Market. This, they claim, frees New Zealand to do likewise.

A link with the United States, they say, would solve the problem of finding a market for farm products since it would mean free entry to the best market in the world. It would mean a vast boost for the travel business, and would involve a realistic acknowledgment that New Zealand defence in any case now relies on the United States.

Most correspondents agree that one of the chief difficulties might be to persuade the United States to accept New Zealand as a state. However, the Wellington newspaper The Dominion, discussing the suggestions editorially, points out that the United States has already stretched out across the Pacific to admit Hawaii as a state.

But it asks how New Zealanders would react if obliged to work at the American tempo, and if they belonged to a country which did not play rugby or cricket.

"We believe in the same kind of democracy," the newspaper New Zealand.

Peru Hits U.S.

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Military President Ricardo Perez Godoy accused U.S. Ambassador James Leach Thursday of taking sides in Peru's presidential election last month. A U.S. spokesman in Washington termed the charge ridiculous.

Leach returned to Washington Thursday for consultations.

"Unfortunately, he (Leach) was not an impartial ambassador," Gen. Perez Godoy said. "He showed preference to one candidate. I don't know why he interfered, but he did."

During the election campaign, Leach was accused of siding with Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, candidate for the American Popular Revolutionary Alliance. Leach denied the charge.

Stolen Art Found

LONDON (UPI) — Thirty-five paintings stolen two weeks ago in Britain's first million-dollar art theft were recovered intact today in a police raid in London's rainy dark district.

Two detective sergeants of Scotland Yard's elite "Flying Squad" burst into a home before dawn, recovered the masterpieces and arrested two men.

A-Check Demands Easing?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's disarmament advisers were reported to have agreed Thursday that new scientific findings justify scaling down the safeguards proposed by the West for a nuclear test-ban treaty with the Soviet Union.

At the same time, informed sources said the cabinet-level officials believe the United States should continue to insist on control posts and inspections inside the Soviet Union as part of any agreement to ban weapons tests.

Here's How Medicare Will Work!

By KEN CLARK

SASKATOON (CP) — Saskatchewan's man-in-the-street will face a variety of alternatives under the province's amended Medical Care Insurance Act.

Officials say how he gets his medical bills paid depends partly on what kind of coverage he wants and partly on the doctor he chooses to treat him.

DIRECTLY INSURED

First, the citizen will be insured directly by the Medical Care Insurance Commission, administrators of the act. Whether he chooses to seek benefits or not, the citizen will begin paying premiums in November.

These have been set at $12 per year for single persons and $24 for a family. Without premiums, cost of the plan this year is being met from tax sources.

PAYS NOTHING

In the case of a citizen insured under the act alone, he will pay nothing if he goes to a doctor who is working under the act. The doctor will send his bill to the commission for reimbursement.

But the patient may have difficulty in finding a doctor working under the act.

Officials say most of the province's 625 practicing physicians will work outside the act, although at least six co-operative clinics have been set up to work under it.

PAY DIRECTLY

If the man insured directly by the commission goes to a doctor working outside the act, then he must pay; the doctor directly and send the bill to the commission for reimbursement.

Alternatively, the individual may decide to remain in a non-profit private group insurance plan or enrol in one.

About 60 per cent of Saskatchewan's population of 928,000 were enrolled in private plans as of July 1.

TWO PLANS

Most were in two doctor-sponsored plans. Medical Services Incorporated and Group Medical Services.

Nearly all doctors in the province have service contracts with one or both of these plans.

If a citizen covered by MSI goes to an MSI doctor under the amended plan he will pay nothing for medical treatment.

The doctor will send the patient's bill to MSI for reimbursement and MSI will collect from the government.

WHAT THEN?

But what if an individual covered by a private agency goes to a doctor who does not have a service contract with the same agency?

In this case the patient gets a bill from the doctor, pays the doctor and then sends his bill to his agency for reimbursement.

If a person decides to join an approved private plan such as MSI then he will have to pay an administrative fee for the privilege, the amount yet to be determined. At the same time the private plans will offer supplemental coverage for an additional premium.

Regardless of what path anybody chooses to follow, all will pay annual premiums to the government for coverage.

U.S. Plans To Attack Says Castro

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro told a noisy rally of Cubans Thursday the United States is preparing direct armed aggression against their homeland. He charged the U.S. Navy was holding the Guantanamo naval base against our will and that it has become "a lodging for drunken inhabitants and counter-revolutionaries."

"The imperialists are arming to their teeth," Castro declared.

OTTAWA (CP) — Teen-agers in Brantford, Ont., who drink water with mechanically-added fluorides have fewer than half the number of decayed teeth their counterparts have in Sarnia, Ont., where the water is not fluoridated the federal health department said Thursday.

FEWER CAVITIES

The Brantford teen-agers, as well as teen-agers in Stratford, Ont., where the water contains natural fluorides, have fewer tooth cavities than those in Sarnia or other Canadian communities where the water supply is not fluoridated.

The statements are contained in a report of tests of 14- and 15-year-olds in the three Ontario cities. The group includes children in Brantford who have been consuming fluoridated water throughout their lifetime.

FLUORIDES ADDED

Fluorides were added to the Brantford water in 1945 while Stratford water has contained natural fluorides from underground deposits for the last 45 years. There are no fluorides in the Sarnia water.

In Sarnia, only one 14- to 15-year-old in 100 has no cavities. In Brantford and Stratford, 16 of 100 have no cavities and those who do have cavities, have small ones.

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan won a vote of confidence in the House of Commons Thursday night as his Conservative party rallied behind him to defeat a Labor opposition censure motion 351 to 253.

The vote followed a stormy debate and speech by Macmillan in answer to Labor's call for the government to resign and hold immediate elections.

In his speech, Macmillan vowed to curb "undue" profits if this was necessary to support the government's wage restraint policy.

ATTRACT SUPPORT

The unexpected pledge was seen as a move to attract public support for the Conservative government's unpopular "pay pause" policy.

Macmillan said the government would restrain any undue growth in profits "by fiscal or any other appropriate means" if it deemed that the profits were being made at the expense of workers.

As a counter-measure — but with none of the legal power — Macmillan said he would appoint an advisory permanent national incomes commission to express views on wage and salary claims of special importance.

PRACTICAL POWER

Though the commission would only have advisory power, Macmillan said, he expected that putting its opinions "before the bar of public opinion" would mean that it would have practical power as well.

He also pledged that the government would introduce legislation to set a statutory minimum period of notice before an employer can dismiss an employee.

Macmillan said the government is reviewing legislation on monopolies and restrictive practices in the light of the last five years' experience.

NOT ABANDONED

Macmillan told the House he was "not at all abashed" by Labor charges that his government is inefficient and incompetent and should resign.

Opposition leader Hugh Gaitskell, opening the debate, concentrated most of his attack on Macmillan's firing of one-third of his cabinet in the great "Friday the 13th purge" of two weeks ago.

"This was the act of a desperate man in a desperate situation," he said.

Macmillan praised former chancellor of the exchequer Selwyn Lloyd, with whom the "pay pause" policy is most closely associated, as a man of courage and purpose.

But the pay pause had been won, he continued. "We have achieved a sound basis for growth and we must conserve that and move to a new phase. I have decided, for this new phase, there must be some new commanders."

Bloody Fight Feared

CP from AP-Wireless

ALGERS — Troops of Algeria's insurgent deputy premier, Ahmed Ben Bella, were reported preparing Thursday night to push into this fortified capital city and clear the way for a new government. Bloody fighting could result.

Troops backing the wobbly central government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda manned all approaches to the city Thursday. Thousands more were holed up in the Kabylie mountains east of this seaport. Their leaders called for widespread resistance to Ben Bella.

CALM FRONT

Ben Khedda, left almost alone in the rambling government building — presented a calm front. He and his armaments minister, Abdelhalid Bouasouf, expressed confidence that "everything will be arranged."

Two vice-premiers loyal to Ben Khedda toured the Kabylie area and addressed a mass rally in the Mediterranean port of Bougie. They are Belkacem Krim and Mohammed Boudiaf, who have vowed to fight Ben Bella "to the last drop of our blood."

FRENCH STAND BY

President de Gaulle's French government watched the situation closely. But government sources in Paris said the 400,000 men of the French armed forces still in Algeria would intervene only to protect any Frenchmen who were endangered.

Followers of dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella appeared to be in firm control of western Algeria and part of the east. Mohammed Khider, a member of the seven-man political bureau Ben Bella has formed for over-all control of the country, told reporters in Oran the bureau will assemble in Algiers. He said he himself will head to Algiers today.

MONTREAL (CP) — Gary Player of South Africa, U.S. PGA champion only last week, disqualified himself from the Canadian Open golf championship early today for turning in a wrong score.

Player was disconsolate over the situation when he realized that after his round that he had taken a seven at the par-five 10th hole instead of a six, as he had reported in finishing his first round of the open with a 75, far behind the leaders.

Player himself reported the situation to Royal Canadian Golf Association officials late Thursday night, and a meeting was held at a motel where Player is staying with his family.

Interpreting the News

Algeria Knows No Peace

By DONALD MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chaos has come again to Algeria and observers fear the newly-independent nation is dangerously close to civil war.

The forces of dissident deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella now control three-quarters of the country while soldiers loyal to the provisional government of Ben Youssef Ben Khedda prepare to defend Algiers, the capital.

In the Kabylie Mountains east of Algiers Deputy Premier Belkacem Krim has denounced Ben Bella's followers as "fascists" and "irresponsible" and called for a massive rally in support of the provisional government.

Meanwhile in Algeria terrified European nationals are flocking to the airport and the harbor. Kidnappings and murders have been mounting ominously.

Much now hinges on whether Ben Bella can consolidate his victories throughout the country. If he wins over-all control Algeria is likely to become a rigid one-party state within the influence of Nasser's Egypt.

At the same time Krim is the undisputed leader of the tough Berber population in the Kabylie Mountains. This area was the strongest bastion of resistance during the rebellion. A clash between Krim and Ben Bella would be lethal.

A third factor is the 400,000-man French army still on Algerian soil.

Sources in Paris say France has no intention of intervening to restore order. But the troops may well take action if it becomes necessary to protect French citizens.

Armed intervention, no matter how interpreted, would give Ben Bella all the pretext he needs for tearing up last March's Evian agreement and ending co-operation with France.

At the moment, despite inflammatory anti-French sentiment among his followers, he has promised to honor the agreement and severely punish Muslim kidnappers of Europeans and Jews.

Several observers in London point to the parallel between the present Algerian situation and the chaos that reigned in the Congo a week after the Belgians pulled out.

Like the Congo, the Algerian dispute seems less a conflict of principle and more a struggle for power between rival forces who distrust each other's intentions.

The wounds of 7½ years of ruthless terrorism have hardly healed in Algeria. Civil war would destroy all that President de Gaulle has sought to gain and the injuries this time could prove fatal.

Special Session in Week To Iron Out Care Act

REGINA (CP) — A special session of the Saskatchewan legislature to incorporate in legislation the 28 points of the Saskatchewan medical care agreement likely will begin next week, Premier Woodrow Lloyd said Thursday.

The premier said the session might be delayed if government legal experts cannot prepare the legislation soon.

The session is expected to last only two or three days.

The Saskatchewan agreement provided that doctors could practice outside the Medical Care Act and indications were many would elect to do so.

It still will be up to patients to decide whether to seek reimbursement for medical service from the Medical Care Insurance Commission which administers the act.

Dr. J. B. Mesbur, president of the Regina and District Medical Society, said Thursday that no doctors in Regina would work under the government plan except seven who are working for a co-operative clinic here.

"Doctors will encourage everyone to purchase package deals from the voluntary prepaid plans," he said. The main voluntary plans in Saskatchewan, Medical Services Incorporated and Group Medical Services, are doctor-operated.

A spokesman for GMS said the organization will as soon as possible offer its subscribers a new contract and service designed to meet the needs of patients whose doctors are practicing outside the Medical Care Act.

G. S. Ashhead, GMS president, said the charge for services will be nominal and sufficient only to cover the costs of administration. The Saskatchewan agreement stipulated that voluntary agencies should be non-profit.

Dr. Mesbur earlier suggested the charge might be $6 a family for one year's coverage.

Mr. Ashhead also announced that GMS plans to offer subscribers a group of extended benefits for a small additional premium.

All Saskatchewan residents, including those paying premium into voluntary plans, must pay the $12 single or $24 family premiums for the government plan.
